EXOESO

by J.H.L. & so'r

To the Moon from the Sun;
To Clear Minds from Confusion

ALPHA

All thoughts are correct.[1]
The totality of all thoughts and their origins is One, which is also None, or - inaccessible.[2]

---

[1] That is to say, every thought is a reflection of a 'real' or observed aspect of the world, and one could interpret every image, word, belief, or system in the mind to be a thought. Therefore, in the total picture, all thoughts sum a 'correctness' - this word being a more evocative word to really mean 'existent'. However, the word 'correct' is used and not 'existent', because the reader may have likely picked this book up to find answers to inarticulable questions, and may not know what that intuitive process is or how to resolve it. The four words are put together to initiate an intuitive understanding that goes beyond the thought one might have about the sentence itself to reveal the meaning intended behind it. Therefore, the reader may have the unconscious intention to have some thoughts validated and others invalidated. However, every thought is either in its right place, or misplaced, but every Mind is a whole Mind, and thoughts are only thoughts. Every particular Mind is One Mind, and all thoughts and their elements, conscious or unconscious, known or unknown, in and at scale, are reflecting out of the total human mind. While some thoughts seem to be perverse, cluttered, or destructive, all thoughts as combining mentalities are correct, in the sense that when their placement is harmonised there is nothing 'incorrect' about their existence in the first place. Furthermore, all thoughts have a cause and reason for their existence, and are all part of the effects the person has on the world.Regardless of whether particular assumptions or indications certain thoughts may claim to have are rational or real, it is still 'right' in the fact that it exists and is part of the interconnected whole, which one might call your Mind, or going to further context, the Cosmos. In a person's attempt to understand something, the level of knowledge that someone claims to have may be thought to have varying degrees of context and detail. In a cosmological scheme, it cannot be incorrect, because it is happening. In the fundamental scheme of things, the cosmos is so infinitely detailed one could never describe it all, or think it all. In another, the thought is merely a representation of an idea, but is still then not incorrect, for the value-judgement on a mere thought could be said to be rather meaningless in context of a larger picture of what actually goes on in the world and in the life of the person. Even if there is no inherent interpretation of this line, one can know the plainity of the reality of the relationships between single thoughts and the total mind to be intuitively comprehensible.

[2] That is to say, all thoughts approach the one particular Mind. It is difficult to speak of totals of things, or the foundational essence of things, or the foundational cause of things, and arguably impossible to find any absolute first cause or first essence of anything and translate it into something meaningful in thought or language. Spiritual language, while attempting to evoke this arguably impossible task rather than explain it, can be met with confusion or annoyance by those who find contention with ambiguous statements or answers. Spiritual language also often uses a via negativa approach to evoke this nameless substance, so as to reveal what is through negating what isn't. Paradox and self-refutation then, is not to obfuscate or confuse for the sake of pushing the truth further away from comprehension, but the opposite, so that one may experience the truth outside of what is conceptualised. Just as the Whole is Blank, so is the One, None. The attempt to approach a single thought of the origins of thoughts itself will yet again leave to another thought, which is, still, another part of the whole organisation of the totality of thoughts. Even this expression is a particular thought, and part of a particular mind, my own. So too is any idea a particular idea, and connected to the totality of ideas. As the author wishes to affect the reader the most through the prose of the writing, it is of primary interest of the author to direct the reader away from automatic or conditioned interpretations by getting specifically involved with them, so as to allow the reader to taper away from their preconceptions through the process. This, the

The known harmony of all contrary and perverse compliments is the White Way.[3]
Obstruction is constipation. Refracted disease to elicit Shadow.[4]
True Path is Emptiness & Freedom. It is also Reality.[5] author hopes, will allow the reader to relax into reading more intuitively and less discriminately, so as to be less constrained by particular definitions that are moulded by his conditioning, and so to, as it were, also take this into reading the world with a heightened state of intuition and lowered state of discrimination or conditioned judgement.

---

[3] That is to say, through metaphors (as metaphors are incredibly useful to remodel patterns of human life and reality) the variances of particular thoughts can be thought of as colours. The totality of all thoughts is like the balancing of all colours in light to make white, as all thoughts have particular identities, and opposing thoughts with opposing identities. White is the balance of all thoughts into a blank state, so in this sense, the white represents here the thoughtless thought, all thoughts combined to make nothing. Not only does this metaphor evoke the visceral and 'visible' nature varying forms of thoughts can have, but also that they can, in a sense,circuit on each other, and on multiple levels, like a fractal. Of course, this also suggests that if certain kinds of 'lower' thoughts cancel themselves out, a brighter awareness will come to the observer as a result, as he has 'escaped' that lower cycle of thoughts. This also implies the possibility that if the reader rises above all cycles of thoughts, the lower and the higher, a hypothetical thoughtless 'knowing' can be discovered whereby as all thoughts have cancelled out, a thoughtless knowing subsists. That thoughtless knowing is expressed in this line as white, bright and totally open to all that is. However, white is not limited to this one definition, and can also mean the totality of all thoughts that have been reconciled and understood properly, as white is also the totality of all other colours of light. This metaphor also signifies that thoughts appear through time, and time is marked with various circumferences and cycles that come into our perception and out of our perception throughout time, just like a colour wheel is marked with the various sorts of colours that we find, with white in the middle. This also signifies that throughout cycles of being, thoughts change, and their relevance waxes and wanes, and sometimes thoughts in general are more 'visible', and other times they are more 'invisible' or transparent.

[4] That is to say, many thoughts can be thought of as bloats, obsessions, neuroses, illusions, and even just delusions. Many of these patterns of thinking and behaviour, if not all of them, are influenced by the present social, technological, and ideological conditions we have today. The ways people think and digest information today is much more imbalanced than it could be. Today, many individuals may find that some of their thoughts or perspectives appear to be much more important than they really are, while others seem to be far less important.One may use the metaphor of a Shadow in to discuss this imbalance of thoughts, as the shadow represents an obstruction to a clearer way of thinking and seeing, This brings us to another vital aspect of esotericism - the reader's interpretation is the primary target of effectiveness, as writings such as this aim to reveal in of itself to the reader their own understandings, rather than merely produce previously worked out understandings to either be agreed upon or disagreed with..

[5] That is to say, Emptiness, Freedom, and Reality are synonymised here to imagine a unified concept of the three - something like a form of mental or 'spiritual' space, movement, and experience. This also implies this idea that thoughts can be cancelled out by opposing thoughts. In the imagined case that all thoughts, like numbers, become cancalled out so there is a 0 thought - a no thought at all, there would be no particular conceptualisation to hold onto after. In this situation, the reader would no longer have any thought to try and resolve.. However, what would be left would be a different viewpoint. The personal viewpoint of the reader themselves is of the primary interest of this book, and this is why the book is structured in the way it is. It is there to reveal patterns in intuitive ways, to make patterns, and to break them both intuitively and counter-intuitively.

There is no Escape from True Escape. The Reality of all shadows burns away.[6]
True intent must never be proved.
The inner world should not be infiltrated.[7]
The True Human is alone in their universe.
The only means for True Union is through shared infinite isolation, and distance infinite between the Two or Three.[8]
True Humanity then can flourish and connect - only when infinite distance has been reached. The souls will finally be accessible then.
Hermitude, egotism, self-love, introversion; good precepts for fodder to cease.

---

[6] That is to say, all things are impermanent. In Nature, everything gets recycled, replaced, and while Nature's structure remains fairly unchallengeable, Nature is not confined to a set of guidelines. We, however, are, and we cannot challenge Nature, and if we do, Nature will turn back on us. So, as we are primarily here how we are because of Nature, our human systems are ephemeral, and Nature being devoid of modern entanglings means we are 'doomed' to eventually become free of those entanglings, regardless of how much we think we want to keep them. Like a prisoner who falls in love with the captor, or someone addicted to something they would feel better without, despite the feelings of loss and destruction that might occur during becoming free and devoid of these entanglings, however chaotic or destructive the process is, we will always feel grateful for being freer and more whole in ourselves.

[7] That is to say, an individual cannot explain how they desire or perceive without translating it, that translation being an insufficient copy of the actual desire or perception. The best way to acknowledge our subjectivity is to experience it as fully as we can. However, many current societal expectations, norms, meanings, and understandings arguably persuade us to try to share those experiences, no matter how devoid of substance what we share actually becomes. We are arguably led to believe that the depth of experience is still worth attempting to share, no matter how superficial or contrived the actual thing being shared is. Such a disconnect has to tamper with our perceptions themselves, possibly even destroying the ability to have those profound and deep experiences that are so hard to share in the first place. When we have an experience, we cannot reduce the experience itself to be merely statistical or likewise to another experience because it shared a few similar parameters in statistical analysis, and when dealing with our own personal universe, we shouldn't need to feel like we should try. One might word it as that we can only share through our expressions, not our impressions. To know that our experiences are private and personal is not to be secretive, but to do the opposite is arguably obscene. Everyone has the ability to cultivate their inner world to be vital and authentic as they can make it and without converting the experience into something else, or to try and exploit the experience, as this arguably spoils the very thing that was experienced.

[8] That is to say, isolation and distance can remove oneself from distractions or demands from the outer world and become aware of themselves at a deeper level, and after one's perceptual and bodily faculties are more balanced and harmonious, one can then be more conscious and more aware of the natures of things in the external world without confusion, assumption, or bias. This line explores the various theological and mythological conceptions of the two-in-one and three-in-one as what constitutes a divine union, and uses this conception to inspire the notion of getting to know oneself to better know others on returning. The writer intends to keep this illustration ambiguous, open to personal and intuitive interpretation

Then Love is at least visible - Truly. Between.[9]

⁂

If Sense is the form, or construct, only with Nonsense or the Fill, can Sense and Nonsense marry to become THAT.[10]
Without intuition, Life is a Broken Wire.
The Matrix is Nothing more than Broken Wires.[11]
The only way to rectify sense is to dissolve it.[12]
The only way to establish order is through Posture.
Identity is false rhythm.
Ego is false rhythm.[13]
Career is an external rhythm. (The internal world should not be infiltrated.)[14]

---

[9] That is to say, the closer we come to ourselves, the closer we discover, or rediscover common instincts that others will have too. While this may seem like a paradox, it is supposed to highlight that our shared individualistic needs as human beings can get obscured through collective customs, belief systems, and moral habits. While humans are social creatures, our sensitivity to our most intimate human needs requires the courage to move away from the mainstream, the homogeneous, ideological, and 'normal' ways of thinking, This inward attention constitutes what might be thought to be self love, and through this, a love of others can be more harmonious and natural. The 'between-ness' here signifies a place without boundary or category, a place where individuals may find nameless substances and original experiences that are outside of conditions or frameworks that obscure the experiences themselves.

[10] That is to say, the brain itself has rational faculties, but the brain is not purely a rational machine, not in the slightest. The brain is the most complex object in the universe currently known to man, and unable to fully understand itself at any given time. To stunt or force the brain to interpret everything in the world rationally or logically is to malnourish it of its wholeness and of its potentiality.

[11] That is to say, our current society bribes our thinking to be logarithmic or computerised. This is what arguably leads to the agitation, bad health, stress, and a numbing of the emotions we see today. A broken wire can signify an uncomfortable or inorganic nervous system. However, the intuitive significations of a broken wire is not limited to merely one interpretation.

[12] That is to say, sense must be integrated with the rest of one's perception to be truly perceived in context for what it is. Dissolving refers to both the surface-level evaporation of the idea of sense, and also the integration and uniting with other forms of perception, forms all human beings have and need.

[13] Ideas, conceptualisations, and mental projections that do not manifest in the world can be thought to be merely delusional habits or ghosts in the brain, that despite popping up and disappearing again and again, might cement themselves as mental facts, perhaps seeming significant, important, or real when they are actually not. Establishing a sense of oneself in concept can be put into practice, in turning the concepts of becoming and realisation into embodied change. Physical activity can get one out of concepts and to start to engage in the world with their physical form.

[14] That is to say, while many certain conceptualisations of identity, ego, and personality might be harmful to cling onto, certain conceptualisations can be reliably established in the world

⁂

All that is is the negation of all things that claim to be what they are not.
Reality itself is the worst victim of the claim.
Reality can only be what cannot claim.[15]
Obstruction is disease is infiltration needs Time to be cleansed.
When the physical is pointed at recovery, it only needs to be followed onto its unravelling.
Questions cease usefulness. Even they shall interrupt escape.[16]

⁂

The Universe or All is Rational or Not.
I am a Part of the Universe.
If Rational, then I am necessarily too, so thinking so is unnecessary.
If Not, I am not either, so thinking so is a Lie.

⁂

---

and be mutually agreed upon in the outer world so for us to have a language to communicate in, for example the concept of 'career.' A major essence of esotericism is a subversive reorganisation of the Mind to see the truth, not have the truth be written out for them to read

[15] That is to say, Reality simply is. It cannot and does not need a mouthpiece. Also, you too are part of this reality. While you can claim things, this writing is an effective literary device to prevent you from conflating the conceptualised from the reality itself. There is also the ancient philosophical tenet of knowledge having different degrees of truth, comprehension, context, or meaning, something that has been lost in Modern Philosophy. For instance, in the Platonic sense, knowledge and knowing itself has an effect on being in certain contexts but not others. This might sound unintelligible to the modern reader. However, we can use the example of 'realising' to make it intelligible, as realising something is both to have something known to be real, but to also cause it to be 'created' in the mind of the knower. This indicates a different form of discernment and specificity to which Modern Philosophy has trouble digesting comprehensively, and someone educated in a modern way may render ancient writing such as Hermes or Plato unintelligible. However, Modern Occultic prose may provide a window to reclaim a comprehension of Ancient Philosophy using the vocabulary of today.

[16] That is to say, many questions are very surface level, and also initiated by a thought Matrix that needs to change effectively on its own. Therefore, even questions that seem important may not be, and a true wish to change for the better requires a change of all things in the mind. Questions can be used to interrupt change, as a defence mechanism or reliance on abstract answers that interrupt the genuine change into a freer subjectivity.

One does not escape from the Mind but through becoming and being it[17], the inner sanctuary and representative of the World, the World being that which all Mind-Beacons compromise.
The Totality of all Inner Homes can justly sum Observable Existence.
To over-extend to the Material Mass is mediocrity, to succumb to the false supreme being - the Matrix.
The only true world starts from within.
To start outwards is to not be, to lose thee, and yes, to the mass herd of formations and machines.
Once this is remembered, security is obvious, and materialisations provide the energy source practically through new tunnels and keys.[18]

⁂

What! What! What! What! What! What! What!
Thank you so much. Thank you. Thank you so much.
Love freedom to free love. Free love to love freedom.
Everything you see and do around you affects what can be seen around you.
Erase the words you disagree with from your living space, and see what I mean.
Erase the brand names too; they have haunted you your whole life.

---

[17] An essential feature of mystical teachings is the message to 'go within'. Rather than escape the mind, as many modern spiritual rumours purport to be the way of becoming more spiritual. While mind refers to the chatter of thoughts that break one's awareness of the present moment, mind can also mean the field of awareness of everything the individual experiences. Neither conception is wrong, per se. Hermeticism uses the conception of the mind in the latter, and thereby suggests one must accept all conditions of experience to be one with the Mental (The Experiential) and if an individual forms their own personal and intuitive understanding of how everything in one's personal universe has meaning to them, one has more power over themselves and grappling with philosophical ideas that might otherwise be rendered unintelligible.

[18] That is to say, the wisdom of self-knowledge is to accept that everything you observe, whether you claim to be objective or not, has your mental interpretation attached to it. A good esoteric or Occult teaching will illustrate that a retraction from big external affairs is essential to reclaiming the mind. One should start by leaving popular and mainstream ideas, and symbols, and search for a more 'pure' way of being.

But. What is that which Sight is, anyway? Consciousness besides formula? Where does Sight come from? Where does Light go from?
And God said let there be light, and I opened my eyes.[19]

⁂

These smartphones took this Light-Sight divinity, and also took it from our bodies.
Now I have to eat less to sleep.
My consciousness wishes to take off its overlays. It too wants to rest to be truly awake. Is it ready? Am I?[20]

⁂

[19] That is to say, everything that you experience is in some way part of your mind, affecting it, just as your mind affects. One step further is to assume that everything you experience is part of your mind, and so is your mind, and the last step is that everything is Mind - Universal and Particular. Hermeticism teaches that the All is Mind. Whether you believe that this is true or not, esoteric teaching will instead of attempting to convince you of a viewpoint, will provide you to enquire in yourself if it may be true and then to experiment with oneself.
[20] That is to say, the call to adventure begins with readiness to entertain thoughts such as that one is living in a false reality, and have faith in one's own safety during this search to seek what this constitutes.

BETA

The Issues, Corruption; Lies from a bribe from Outside.
One's world is never incomplete but will appear incomplete from the bribe.[21]
An external fancy is not of the corrupted gravity of a bribe.
A desire for the external met properly is a rectifying recognition of that external circumstance as harmonious for what is Within.[22]
Harmony is Mutual Recognition.
The insinuation of incompleteness degrades.
Don't let things interrupt what you already know.[23]

⁂

She who is too committed to an idea becomes a clone to herself.
The devourer 36 of 12 of 6 of 3 of 2 cannot reach 1; for One is All.
We only know how things look after we have them upside down - to know of either is folly, and neither is naivety and blinded-ness.

---

[21] That is to say, it might be claimed that it is our human birthright to have a whole and autonomously creative inner life. However, while one may disagree that we have any essential 'birthright' at all, it can be shown that we may be tempted into feeling incomplete or insecure through fancies in large spaces, from other people, trends, and popular culture, and this is not our duty either. While one will always maintain the sanctity of an inner life, it may be pushed aside and made dormant for the chasing of the superficial and mundane. This can be illustrated in the concept of 'fear of missing out', or 'being boring' as being the form of a bribe to make the individual feel incomplete and to join the mass herd. It is important to recognise how much more of the activity of these things comes from fickleness and mutual competitiveness than is liked to be believed, and how much of a pity this is when it significantly takes away from our inner enjoyment of life.

[22] This harks back to a Hermetic idea that is All is within you already. Therefore, in this perspective anything met in the real world that shines authenticity and love is something that corresponds to an already existing thing inside you. This is illustrated as the opposite example of an external fancy that renders one feeling incomplete or dissatisfied, and illustrates that there is a difference, and that the hidden cause is the feeling of permanent incompletion, or the feeling of permanent completion-already-met.

[23] That is to say, there are sensitive ideas that cannot be articulated well. All of these are very important to maintain and keep alive for an inner life, especially if one has started to consider their mind as an essential aspect of their personal wisdom. The Mind is a fluid but systemic observer of things, but the fact that this is even the case often goes amiss, and instead we rely on group mentalies to validate our thoughts, and even our feelings. This can and will leave us addicted to common thoughts and behaviours and leave us feeling disappointed, and indeed, this way of communion has been used to systemically exploit and degrade for a long time, whether deliberate, inadvertent, conscious, unconscious, or otherwise.

Language is only what it is to you here and now. Therefore, language too is chaos.
So - stop reading, and go! Go out, go out, and experience my words no more![24]

⁂

Articulation into higher consciousness is a fool's errand. If you accept the idea, you are lost.
Articulation is for fools. That you did lose.[25]
Consciousness is for losers. Winners broke consciousness, and yet are so more conscious.[26]
The Cosmic Womb of Unconditional Silence lets us play games.
Not everyone remembers that they are playing, and those always lose that game.
All games must be lost. The truth is the prize of the cease of the game.
In True Life, only True Winners remain. Winning that Game-In-Life is the Restart of Life.
How burdensome for our burden of Life to be That game - not Life.

---

[24] That is to say, esotericism is the direct application of subjective thoughts, tools, words, ideas, prose, metaphors, and rituals, to awaken in oneself a lived notion of patterns in terms of how we think they should be, how we have been conditioned, and how we can renavigate and reconvene those patterns working in the mind to cancel them out, and in doing so organise newer pathways out of that conditioning, using techniques such as self-refutation, archaic symbology, and mystical insight. Esotericism is the effectiveness of ideas to bring the reader into intuitive awareness of what is for them.

[25] That is to say, the study of wisdom and Enlightenment is an effort in which the very language it is written in can alter consciousness. This is the based on the idea that something can be more effective at altering consciousness even if it makes less sense on the surface. This line is written in such a way to appear to dismiss the idea that articulation can lead to higher consciousness, but upon this reading and experiences after, but in doing so still endeavours to alter of the consciousness of the reader. Paradoxical ideas can be very effective at altering consciousness, and commentary of experience of contradictory ideas illustrate a sort of unfolding of consciousness.

[26] That is to say, the term 'consciousness' is arguably a peculiar, clumsy, and insufficient word, and to hold onto a specific conception of consciousness as the aim towards consciousness change stunts its change. For example, existence is not a quality (of existence.) Existence simply is. To live an experience of that which can only be reflected as an idea, such as experience, or consciousness, is another thing to understand the idea theoretically. To break one's conceptions of 'consciousness' so as to alter what one experiences as consciousness one cannot pander to the conception. Consciousness can both mean a feature, the meaning of experience, the outcome of perception, etc. However, the conception is not the actuality.

The life we had wanted is the Life-After-Questions.[27]
To know what we know is to need nothing else.
The path of what Is is an end of Is-Am. Do not self-separate for you are your own quest.[28]

⁂

[27] That is to say, while there are a myriad of interesting existential questions, they are not necessary to living. Many individuals today could focus their attention mainly to seek to broaden and deepen the experience of their own lives and experiment with the many practices they may find. Furthermore, all other possible awarenesses of experience align, circuit, and potentiate within the present moment - there is no future that does not eventually become the present moment, and no matter what question you may ask, the present moment will always be the present moment, however enjoyable, unenjoyable, comfortable, uncomfortable, cognitively dissonant, cognitively harmonious, foggy, or clear a person experiences it.

[28] That is to say, spirituality, enlightenment, or illumination may seem to many like an abstract escapism from accepting the facts or realities of the empirical world. However spirituality and enlightenment, or illumination are merely words that have very broad and varied meanings. These words themselves might be used in contexts that can only be seen abstractly and so without value or reality, but they can also be used in context of the intimate personal journey one can go on, the most intimate, the most personal, the most psychological, the most comprehensible to an individual. In the end, a person may search outside themselves for an abstract answer to their life, and many dangerous and destructive ideas, customs, and beliefs have also been ascribed to be in pursuit of spirituality and enlightenment. Nevertheless, the qualities of an individual are far more relevant to the subject of transformation and recreation than the mere ranging of terms. Whether the reader is spiritually inclined or not, the reader will find themselves and their personal qualities to be the inescapable root of this very ‘spirituality’ that might be being aimed towards.

GAMMA

Lust or pull or need, not quite, but libido is attraction at least.[29]
My phone misses me. Do I miss it? My toxic ex-partner still wants to be friends.[30]
Our bodies tick, even if clocks don't. But neither the physical nor the abstract endure any weight.[31]
Freedom from Cult is not a sin. Fear of Freedom is Self-Denial and Self-Betrayal.
All big ideas are not walls but lights if they are. Symbols are better than polemic divisions.[32]
I wish to not live that life that was recommended to me, but the one that I was robbed of. Though on surface they seem similar, the latter presents itself to me rightly.[33]

---

[29] Both Jungian and Hermetic ideas are very effective at painting a picture of the correspondences between psychological and material attracting of forces. We can change what we put our attention to, what attracts us to things and, in a way, what attracts things to us, While this way of thinking may arguably render the difference between mental and physical activity ambiguous, but in our experience there is no way of dissecting mental and physical activity. However, banding mental and physical activity together does not mean one discards the awareness that their subjective experience can deceive them, and subjective experience often can be directly deceptive.

[30] That is to say, the object an individual uses as a mental vice, that is, a phone, a passion, or a narcotic, like any object or trait, can be personified, as if they have intentions themselves that conflict with our own. If we can break bad habits from our vices, one could evoke the idea that the habit is a reflection of ourselves; the phone misses us, just as we miss it. A vice may not rely on a specific object to be actualised. What one person uses for a vice may be used moderately by another. One can adapt and alter their habits with energetic effort, and anyone can learn to master how to handle and control the direction of their personal energy. This metaphor also refers back to the concept of libido and attraction, or relationship as dual, or mutual.

[31] That is to say, physical duration and abstract time are distinct and should be for the dismantling of pre-conceptions of existence. However, neither time nor duration indicate any essential burden that may come within time, or duration, and everything is in flux.

[32] Unlike polemic divisions, such as left vs right politics, which intend to evangelise or divide, symbols in of themselves evoke. A symbol, like anything in the real world, can evoke a magnitude of differing meanings and interpretations that a particular belief or slogan cannot. Unlike a slogan, a phrase, or a political leaning, a symbol hints at an aspect of this complex world we live in does not attempt to bolster one perspective over another. If it refers to something direct and something that can be fully encapsulated and defined, like a logo or slogan, we are no longer dealing with the symbol in of itself, but something that has been converted into a sign. A symbol, unlike a sign, and arguably that which precedes the confines of the sign, goes further and deeper in scope, and the power of symbols is their very ability to elucidate the indirect, the intuitive, and the undefinable.

[33] That is to say, besides the clarity and awareness of experience of one's life, a life that looks appealing but one that a person is unconscious of, and a life that the person is fully conscious in, can appear to be much the same to a distant observer. The key is the clarity itself, and this key lies in the internal going-ons of the very person living it.

Are you or not aware that you are in the world, and there is 'nowhere else' but the world?
The irrational is the escape from unreal rationalities.[34]

⁂

Let the horror and sublime burn through you. The realisation of what's happened is in need of both.
What is 'what is going on' is a lie on all levels.
What narrative you find is not anywhere at all, and also seven million fibre tangles that only exist in hypothesis. That hypothesis only exists for lies, written or spoken.
You all are reacting to sensory battery, beyond personal comprehension. Your narrative is the total cover-up of this.
We are not citizens of man-made statutes, but an infinitely vast cosmic universal that will victor.
We try to see the external and ordinary world as what this is for us, our individual concerns existing, but our Mind being a bias. Rather, what each of our Mental experiences is, in all of them, is but a section of THAT, GOD. Every single experience is formed into a mosaic, from the high to low, left to right, good to 'bad'. This crystalline is what this is; the All is Mind. You see one part of it, so do I.[35]
Social butterflies create webs of the mundane. The introvert found more universals of humanity because he was alone.

---

[34] Paradoxical poetry is one thing, but a mystical underpinning hiding behind the ordinary universe is another. Can one lead to the other? Esoteric writing tends to be written in a way that attains to reveal things to the reader, not merely be written in a style to be simply agreed or disagreed with. Ideas such as psychicism and spirituality can be readily rejected if taken at face value, if seen in an particular lens of interpretation, and commonly a logical and practical treatment of forms of philosophy and language can lead many spiritual ideas to be rejected as the substance of the enquiries esoterica hints towards have not been digested. Even if spiritual ideas are accepted at face value, this does not necessarily lead the individual into an experience of them. To affirm a conceptual truth without any deeper personal insight is an exoteric. To bring the reader to a personal and visceral understanding the ideas point to is esoteric.

[35] Many Hermetic and Occult teachings speak of the consideration of a 'universal mind' which is God, and that we are particular minds within the manifest world, or particular segments of God. The writer displays a metaphor of a mosaic or a crystalline to illustrate this idea, as though while limited, all of our experiences can be summed as what might be considered the full experience of the Universe, which could be considered to be the unmanifest experience of the universal mind, or, God.

So too is the mystic, hermit, and introvert more in touch with humans. Our mundane socialisms are surface cover-ups, designs as canopies to mask our real beingness.
Cut the salt!
You cannot find reality in these crowds.
Quarrelling with personal problems is ill-dignified if brewed.
It blocks a wider spiritual sense of universal consciousness, of Life as Pure Potentiality.
Green leaves. Baby steps and memories.
All that matters is consciousness.[36]

*
**

[36] That is to say, while esoteric writing is often counterintuitive in its prose and content, esoteric tradition tends towards the indirect revealing of genuine truths, laws, principles, and realities between our experiences as human beings, ethically valuable to learn for human development, learning, and growth. We can foster more of an awareness that we can change the conditions of things, and we can have more power over the things that matter to us. Apathy to injustice and suffering is something that can be diminished and finally overcome. Searching for justice, truth, or reform, however, will necessarily lead an enquiring individual to go against the grain of some of his circumstances, traditions, and beliefs of those he spends his time with. Esoteric understanding is not designed to be dogmatic in instruction, and certain ideas cannot be taught, only learned through personal introspection, contemplation, and embodiment. However, because of the nature of this approach, esotericism as an art can more effectively aid the individual. But the reader needs willingness to openly listen and receive, with subdued judgement or prejudice to make conclusions on statements and ideas being presented and on the execution and form the statements and ideas are being made in. Also, the mind intakes ideas consciously as well as unconsciously, Some ideas, even if seemingly nonsensical on the surface, may can be incredibly effective to understanding in general due to its interaction with the unconscious, even if the ideas of the prose itself is not or cannot be rationally understood or be considered to make literal sense.

DELTA

It, I Manifest.
I, I Manifest.
The Occult is a practice, not a practiced.
One cannot have known something to know it, nor live it.
This is a great deception, the slyest con from freedom.
Sensitivity-to-Being.
The unanswerable; What, Is, IT?

⁂

Enlightenment is; Knowing that things are, and knowing how things are.
It is not deep. They are 'this'. That's how.
Opinions you are often wrong.
But THOSE deep inarticulable feelings, no you are right!
Wake and Break!

⁂

Money is a means, not an end, nor a means to an end.
It is a funny way the human mind will get accustomed to a dystopia.
Some will, some days, agree with how dystopian things have gotten.
Then other days say everything is fine the way it is.
You can't have both, sunshine.[37]

⁂

[37] That is to say, cognitive dissonance is something to be carefully examined in oneself. Cognitive dissonance occurs when individuals hold contradictory ideas, beliefs, and perspectives in their minds, seemingly at the same time, and this creates discomfort and perceptual blindness to oneself.

EPSILON

A feeling can nerve sever if forced against itself to Work for Ego.
A feeling will not work for you in this way. A feeling inside already is correct, and all Ideas are Servants.
Surrender to the Activity of Life.
So many possibilities of choices, and choices bigger inside the smaller.
And a Cave-Minded man, One of Many, shall only see Yes or No wherever he looks.[38]
A man of fair choice is meekly swamped, for in his words and between them lies interference from the Cave, a constrained stream of gravity and rhythm to keep his House a Busy Restaurant.[39]
No, the Many of One, hidden in common and uncommon areas known to civilisation see their home, Earth itself, as the Divine Hotel from which wardens and pests orbit away from distantly, for reasons lost to them.
The reason is that the more Vivid Life is, the less noticeable it is by the Static Herd.
I have been a Herdman. I could barely smell the incense or taste the rain.

*
**

Count backwards from the current year to the year of your birth, and position yourselves back into yourselves.
It is a pity to some, a task to others, and unknown to most, that for most of our life we have forgotten it.
But, I am only able to write in 2023 right now. Perhaps 2023 me is too, too 'we'.

---

[38] That is to say, people who might be stuck in a limited frame of mind might think they need external resources to tell them what choices to make, either through work, home, online, or otherwise. It is a great shame that some people miss the frames of mind considered moderate or gentle, and fail to see the subtle gradients between extreme opinions and the third options available to us all.

[39] That is to say, many people of the modern world accumulate so much of what they gather in the public space that their home may feel like a busy restaurant, or a constant influx of public information, a space where the work, communication, and service is just as impending as anywhere else. Many people have forgotten their right to solitude and need to be alone, whether they are on-screen or off it.

⁂

But the situation remains. Which situation? Exactly.
One that even all common thoughts combined cannot illustrate, for the problem is Real. Or, the problem, Real is not.
The problem is the Gunk on the Real.[40]
Vaccinations, medications, sanitisers, and bad intentions, have tipped the Nice Iceberg of Gunk into Titanium Wool.
My eyes bleed! And yet no Titan to be found, for no Titans but Real ones are worthy enough to throw hands with.
I will punch my diary before any of those Cobwebs become Real.[41]

⁂

As soon as Mental Magic is tossed away to prioritise Practical Matters, the Practicer of Life has become Scattered. The drink shall be enjoyed properly, or not at all.
The All is Mind.[42]

⁂

Something can seem Right but feel Wrong.
Someone can seem Correct but still be a Real person underneath.
Does a Lie still sound truthly?
There is no 'we'. There is but Me and You, and upon your departure, Me.

---

[40] One of the largest issues of our culture and of the way the civilisation of modernity has encouraged people to see the world is that it leaves a conceptual layer of interference over the world being perceived, much like 'gunk' on a window or a mirror. The 'gunk' interferes with personal clarity of what is real.

[41] That is to say, thoughts can be considered as interference on the perception of the nature of the world, and while being illusory, still retain a sense of perception about them. Thoughts can be compared to cobwebs, but as they are illusory, they cannot be attacked or fought. One may indeed damage or hurt something physical before they may trying to destroy something that was always an illusion.

[42] 'The All is Mind' is the famous first precept of the Seven Principles of Hermeticism, that being the Universe is a Cosmic Mind, of which we are all participants in and of this Cosmic Mind.

How many untruths or Bad Thoughts does one unknowingly endure each day? That's a simple answer. The answer is - Who?[43]

Everyone endures different things, for everyone is different. Within Intelligible there is Unintelligible. Within that is Common Sense, and what was so-called Intelligible was just cannon fodder.

Never mind.

(Vomiting is to Body what Laughter is to Mind.)

Patience is a virtue, but I'm in this labyrinthine corner because I put myself here. What brighter devil shall shake me off it, before I disappear, and that Devil sayeth 'It is really I!'?

And after such a proclamation, can even He decide to die as I welcome the decision? Kill me, Devil, and when your time comes, shall the real James Riordan-Waters slayeth thee.

And so on.

Not all good writing is good. Here you read an example of writing that speaks of Good, but is bad. The good is what it's written for.

Is this the great Sacrifice of Mine?

Do I the Devil face my death?

Does James keep me alive still?

I do not like to be words, James.

I am cold.

Goodbye.

For a writer to be reborn, he must kill himself, the Writer, and just write.

⁂

[43] That is to say, some people often expect familiar responses to familiar questions. In this, however, nuance, context, and difference in viewpoint and personality gets overlooked. Despite how over-generalising the rhetoric and the media can make large groups of people appear to be, everyone has a different perspective of life.

ZETA

Meditation is Water.[44]
Nutrition is Good Information.
Meditation is Air.
Nutrition is The Earth.
Junk food is "The World".[45]
Meditation is for to bring back The World and forget everything else.
Meditation brings you back to Earth.
Meditation blows out the Face Ego.
Meditation breathes you back your Flame.
You are the Fire.
Their Mind is Misinformation.
Mind is Pure Information.[46]
You are Good. You are nothing else.
Bad is just refracted Good.
Misinformation is refracted information.
Good is All, and I am Good.

---

[44] That is to say, meditation can be seen to be correspondent to water, not correlated to it. Correspondent speech is not necessarily correlative or conflative. To say that meditation 'is' water is not to imply they are identical. Correspondences are not the same sort of thing as generalisations or correlations. If I were to say that 'All Footballers are Hooligans', something the writer is not genuinely claiming but writing as a semantic example, this sort of claim would demand justification in making unless one provided empirical evidence. Nonetheless this form of sentence claims a correlation or conflation. However, in the context of meditation being water, the 'is' term is a semantic device imported to illustrate the potential connection the mind can make between the two things, a correspondence the mind can use as a reference point for their own subjective connections they make to the world around them and to other ideas they have. This is not to conflate the two things, but to build a conceptual bridge between the two for personal purposes.

[45] That is to say, one can imagine just as we can create correspondences between things so as to bring them together, so too can we make distinctions, this example referring to the distinction we can make between affairs of the 'worldly' kind (media stories, mainstream events, etc) and the natural planet we live on, as being two very distinct things. Here, two correspondences are made between two forms of food, and two forms of world, with an important distinction made between the two sets of two.

[46] That is to say, both the Mind's internal workings (thoughts, imaginations, dreams, theories, experiences) and external workings (art, literature, language, texts, speech) can be thought to boil down to information, or neurological activity going inwards and outwards. If we think of things this way, we can understand that our mind is constantly receiving information from the outside world, and constantly giving information back through our senses and interactions with it. The most obvious example of the latter process going is through the words we say and the actions we do. However, when we consider the Hermetic principle 'The All is Mind', one can picture that the cosmos is an entire system of information, giving and receiving information from itself, to itself.

All under All.[47]

⁂

Sometimes Beauty and Truth seem mean or even Evil.
Good is Light. Deep down, Evil is just Obstruction of Light. So Evil is Obstructed Good.
I have been a Member of the Public again, and so I have been the Public. So I have been an enemy to myself.
I helped myself by dissolving my Publicity.
Therefore, the way to help the Public is to dissolve it in oneself.
Nietzsche warned of digging to find Self, and so he said to climb towards Self.
And so I climb away.
The year is July, 2023.

---

[47] That is to say, the meanings of some things are not supposed to be found through a linear, step by step, or deductive process, but an intake of the entire product as it appears to you in the present moment. However, many ideas are informative, and step by step, one considers the entire set of parts so one may see how it works in one way and how it does not, or should not work, in another way. Information about how to code a piece of computer software will contain, implicitly or explicitly, a set of specific instructions that are either to be obeyed or lead to a malfunction of the code. However, other ideas are not supposed to be understood this way, and instead should be seen as 'food for the mind', art being the most obvious example. When one looks at art, one is not to gain a specific set of instructions but a different frame of mind through the experience. In this sense, Esotericism and Occult Literature could be considered, as primarily 'Mind Food' and secondarily as 'Specific Information' when one prioritises the 'esoteric' aspect. However, esoteric and occult ideas should not be reduced to be conflated with mere art or food. Esotericism is not a hedonistic exercise, but an art that grows from philosophy, spirituality, and morality. Esotericism still concerns the subjectivity of the experience of reading first, so esotericism intending to explain the idea, to transmit the truth of that idea into the awareness of the reader. The world is unfathomably complicated, and nobody would ever have enough words to 'explain' an entire worldview in of itself. Esoteric works accommodate the human mind in of itself through the resources of external language, art, and symbolism, and are created in such a way as to shift the engager's perception intuitively so they may see what is for themselves. It is about what it does to you, not what it tells you to do, and so just like any philosophical effort truly is to change the mind of the reader, esotericism has its heart in transmitting an idea intuitively, thus changing the perception of the reader to comprehend something that cannot be fully grasped in an explanation most effectively. Arguing the logical pros and cons of one belief or bias over another is something that so often leads to misunderstanding, miscommunication, conflict, and in the worst cases, violence, persecution, and bloodshed. Esoteric philosophy, as best as it can be, withdraws its efforts from argument entirely, and instead offers little to no explanation and justification, and puts its efforts instead into that which is most evocative and effective to transform the subjective workings of the mind for the truth to reveal itself, like how your hands reveal themselves to you, or your feelings reveal themselves to you. There is an epistemological terminus with any sort of explanation of experiences. If there are any such deeper truths that the reader wishes to find, they cannot have them merely explained to them, but must through-and-through discover them for themselves.

I am proudly being Apart.
Never pride over being a Part.

⁂

My Fuel is Earth; Mine Material Vehicle.
Exhausts and fumes in Burps and Farts.
And so the driver drives upwards.
Physicality is Beauty defined, but not all Physiques seem beautiful.
And all of your problems are Physical.
So all of your solutions are Physically Focused - they are to get the Physical out of the way of the Physical.
But I cannot clean that way. I am not a herb. But I can dislodge other things - memory, concept, ideal, paradox, pattern, interruption, and fear.
Yes, your brain maintains Bad Physique.
And Bad Physique makes worse Bad Brain.
Now my Mind shall destroy Bad Brain.
Good Brain cancels out Bad Brain and Other Bad Brain, and what is left?
The road to the Sublime is quite in Sight, is it not?

⁂

Accepting criticism, expecting praise.
Knock it out!
Expecting criticism, accepting praise.
Pack it in!
See if you can sit with your Wisdom for five minutes without being scared of it.
If it's known, it's known. If not, not.
Unquestioned it can do no harm yet.
Unwavering it can do no harm.
And if it’s truly knowable, the only harm is doubt.
Keep it to yourself!

⁂

If Truth, a Truth, or a Part of the Whole Truth, is feared or disliked, it is even more important to know it.
I have censored or regulated things I've known to seem reasonable, and so I wilted like a flower without any Sunlight.
And now being reasonable does not seem so important to those who I risked offending. Of course, it was not important at all.
Can someone please turn the Lights on?

⁂

What on God's Earth is the Point of pursuing Wisdom if not for All of it?
A bad settlement.
Compassion is part of Wisdom. So is Havoc.
Why know for anything else?
For a bite of the full thing to be used for something else?
Despicable fragments of containment, bottled up for separate purposes.
Self-Destruction turns to Life.
Half-Destruction pushes against Life.
I would rather be a fool than Half-Wise.
Even a fool acts wisely, compared.
Say the thing you think you can't.
See the thing you feel you shan't.
For therein lies Whole Wisdom.

⁂

Life is meant to be an inside out story. Stories are about life.
But do not turn life into a story, because then you turn life inside out.
Are you enjoying the Video Game of Life?
It is comprehendable to bottle life into a jar. The jar squashes and compresses. Few notice.
But the jar cannot reverse itself, per se.
It must instead be broken.
Break everything! All that you break will be that jar.

Life is unbroken always.
But it will be annoyed at you for a while. (Don't worry, none of it is your fault.)
I sit at the table and write in my book. All is well.
All is right.

⁂

Language is not an is.
Language is a does.
Esoteric English is better than Modern English.
Rational argument is a necessary evil then. Intellectual cocaine if not.
So much thus far should be obvious by now.
Speak for yourself, not despite it!

⁂

When I was littler, I wanted chocolate.
I did not want Life or Love or Freedom or Truth, because I was those things.
When I was twenty, I wanted Life and Love and Freedom and Truth, because I wasn't those things - or so it seemed.
When I broke my jar completely, I unjoined the Great Sweeping Fog Lie through its cracks.
Wait! Is this really what's happened?
When the jar was broken, I remembered that I must be just a Man on the Earth.
Are you a Man on the Earth, or the Great Sweeping Fog Lie? Let us pretend there is no in-between.
When I broke my jar, there was no death, sickness, misfortune, or deceit that followed, but Life, Love, Freedom and Truth.
The flight to Self-Knowledge will surely land. Expect turbulence.

⁂

ETA

In order of staying on the Rightest of tracks,
One: Can you be manipulated?
Two: Can you manipulate?
Everything can be manipulated.
Everyone can be manipulated, and everyone can be manipulative.
You can do it!

⁂

Pride comes before a fall.
You are your only worst critic.
Together this is good news!
And everyone loves teaching, so love learning.
But any lesson is just one of many, many lessons.
What school will you go to?
Learn to learn something good.

⁂

The only thing that always must be Known,
Is that what is Unknown is Unknown.
You learn something new every day!

⁂

The best esoteric practice is inverting ‘energy’. And not inverting it.
In, out, in, out, shake it all about.
The road to Wisdom is paved with freak intentions.

⁂

The Brahma walks into the Labyrinth of Suffering knowing he will become an unknowing Atma.
The Atma walks out of the Labyrinth of Suffering unknowing.

When he is out, Brahma remembers. He knows why he went in.
You did it to yourself, even if right now you can't know why.

⁂

Coincidence and Oddity are floods for Sudden Creative Genius.
The Great Worker is The Creative Genius.
As above, so below.
The peripheral back doors are the keys.

⁂

Attention is traffic.
Focus on what we should all focus on.
Nothing is at rest. Everything moves.
Doesn't that sound?
Concepts are the hurdle, not the essence at all to Wisdom.
Wisdom is sensory sensitivity, the second-to-none frontier.
Sense outwardly.

⁂

You're allowed to be wrong.
But you aren't.
The only true job is the Spiritual Job. Once you remember this job, the others will be forgotten.

⁂

If one were to ask themselves if they wanted £1, £101, or £1,000,001 for free, they would want the most that they could, no problem.
Why does one feel differently about their own life?
Is the meaning of life then not obvious?
Of course, everyone has a different life, but everyone still has one.
Even still, there might be costs of things in life for what you do or don't do, but in life in total there is no cost of life itself regardless.

Mind and Body are the Causes of Life, and the Effects.
Yoga is to Body what Magick is to Mind.
If you can understand what Magick and Yoga really are, everything can and should be comfortably translated into them.
Breakfast and paperwork.
Yoga and Magick is all you need.

⁂

Career, opportunity, time, and recklessness.
What do you regret the most in life?
The answer should only be one thing - loss of consciousness, the diminishment of consciousness.
The loss of loss is also the loss of regret.
Because only one thing matters - consciousness.
Only one thing is - consciousness.
Even obstruction of consciousness is just unnaturally placed consciousness. It really isn't a big deal.
Your Mind is your only important instrument.
All other instruments are extensions.
Salvage the Mind. Nourish the Body. Then you shall regret nothing.
Batter the Mind, Toxify the Body. Then the illusion of regret may again emerge.

⁂

THETA

Think and speak small and big, big and small.
Viva la variete, the Cosmos encourageth.
There are now more colours than ever.
If you want more from things, your friendships, your ambitions, in short - life.
If you say, 'Why doesn't THAT become my life?'
If it's like your soul is waiting for something that doesn't come,
The Occult can help.
Even if it can't say How.
Let this load before you are sure.

⁂

Coincidence begets coincidence.
It may be true that the coincidence seeker alters their own Fortune.
But to seek coincidences for their own sake, gives rise to a new and ascended Brain; the pathways line up harmoniously once wants are subdued.
Everything is connected, and every type of connection is connected.
Connect to disconnect.
The circuitry of all patterns in all is the path to deconditioning.
Even Luck shall let you go.
Once the connecting of all is completed, Plain Truth shall be what shineth through.

⁂

It just works.
Don't believe me? I think you do.
The differing of meanings and metaphors, but Wisdom shalt not submit to an auto-computer. Wisdom shalt not need to.
The Ancients knew what they were talking about.
Do you?

⁂

Go inwards to go outwards, but not the other way round.
Incongruence, psycholoddity, that which what did he say?
It will make sense, once it does it starts to move you towards your True Destiny.
Bring the unfamiliar back into the familiar.
Normal thought is besides the point.
My parents did not want to know.
Did yours?
Do not think secret messages make you arrogant, just bold.
Everyone is destined if they seek.
And everything really does make sense in that way, if you let yourself lean into it.
Give into it.
Give in.
Everyone is trying to tell you something.
Just let them break their scripts, and let your doubt too fall away into a memory.
What are you trying to say?

⁂

God gave you this physical environment!
Relearn to fall in love with it!
Respect thy elements.
Master the carpet, the window sill, the kitchen sink.
Categorise, dispose, return, scrub.
Feed your dog.
Disintegrate, remember, conclude, fast.
Your name is God.

⁂

I feed my mouth emptiness.
I feed my mind emptiness.
23:08 is August after July before the day is broken.
In modernity, everyone is anti-everyone.

Everyone?
How many ideas did I really believe that I believed?
How many men really believe that they believe they are men?
How many women still believe they believe they are women?
Do I believe that I don't believe in belief?
I master my house through my mind.
The master of the house is a finite identity.
What about The Master?
What is the government of x? y?
What is the government of y? z?
What is the government of z? What is a?
Who doesn't belong to themselves?
What looks through the point?
Who emerges from every point?
We are all either not getting by, or we are.
Beneath that, we are.
Beneath that, we are just human beings.
Beneath that, we just are.
The sparks! 'The' sparks?
Gold and white steam loses its bureaucratic form.
I am only Human.
There is nothing to look at that is not to look at.
There is nothing to realise that is not to realise.
The smell of tinsel arouses the Ajna.
Not even Jesus Christ is Human now.
Now he is just that lesson.
Jump in. Fall into ruin.
Like an egg, but with a shell that is broken from the outside in.
You are the Church of God, waiting for reframing.
I like to work, it's the idea I don't.
Get back to work!
All work is re-creation.
It has always been!

⁂

Let go of the idea of illumination.
More importantly, let go of disillumination.

Daily routine licks the boots of the Kingdom of Life.
Which context is superior?

⁂

A wizard or not, he was still just Harry.
One can never escape that as far as they think they can escape from the Here and Now, one never can.
One can only bend one's head so far in a certain direction but will still Be Being.
Information is a part of Being, but Being is not ‘just’ Information.
Being is just. It is just being.
I think that I am.
I think therefore I am? I am, regardless of my thinking.
Before I could see I was blind.
Before that I thought I could see.
See what? Anything!
Philosophy, poetry, art. All aids to awareness. All hurdles as well.
Until then, be satisfied or dissatisfied.
Samsara or Nirvana.
Either way.
Dot dot dot.
Dot dot.
Dot.

⁂

Let me remind you that you are your True Self.
And remind, and remind, and remind.
Do you get vertigo? (Do not answer the question.)
Do you get anxious? (These words hath cursed thee forever.)
Do you get hopeful? (These words hath blessed thee forever.)
Are you Physical? (Can you read this question?)
Are you Mental? (Can you read this question?)
Does your Soul even need to ask?

⁂

I do not like things that are really nasty.
When my friend is in trouble, I wonder what I can do.
I am attracted to food and to sleep.
Does this sound familiar to you?

⁂

Less unnecessary suffering.
Pretty please?
Necessary suffering can even be the cherry on top.
Don't confuse them.

⁂

All anxiety is indigestion.
All depression is another kind of indigestion.
There is no wrong. There is just is. There is no fear that is not just thought and feeling.
When you go in search of fear, you find yourself only thinking and feeling.

⁂

First start destimulating, going bored some.
Then, physical exhaustion.
Then you can start discerning one thought from a similar looking one.
Then you can start yearning and holding.
Then it is time to ask yourself for what you want.
This containeth keys to Chakric ascension.

⁂

Logic will cringe at the Cosmic Joke.
And the cosmic joke is;
Dual-Non-Dual.
L.O.L!

⁂

Now I shall ask you.
Do you want Enlightenment - Yes or No? But do not tell me your answer.
I wish for you to instead tell me whether you are sure or not sure of your answer.
Because surely ‘I am not sure’ is the same answer as No.
And ‘I am sure’ is the same answer as Yes.
Things indeed slice differently on the Other Side which faintly you can see even right now.
Is it not so?

⁂

Difference is not distinction. There is a distinction.
Samsara attains Nirvana or even Samsara.
Nirvana has attained itself or even Samsara.
There is no difference.

⁂

Kill or be killed, Samsara does not need to destroy nor be destroyed.
Nirvana is lack of death, decay. and is also non-destruction.
Yes! This is why we can have nice things!

⁂

‘Is the sky really blue?’
I heard someone ask.
Then later, I came to learn they were blind.
That’s why they really asked!

⁂

It just is. That’s all there is.
All there is is is.

This book somewhat is.
What it's made of is some more.
But who’s keeping score?

⁂

IOTA

Neurosophy and Everyday Mystical Entanglements.
Let the Normal and the Divine Cross-Contaminate.
My Iota, My My Iota.

⁂

Death to Birth, Birth to Death - is my Life similar to a palindrome?
Only these words are written front-to-back, not then back-to-front.
Then it is alphabet.exe itself that, within life, is the palindrome in the palindrome.
First, I was Born. Then, alphabet.exe was the operating system I installed for myself via a song. Then, english.exe would become my primary program.
Before I Die, or during, even english.exe and alphabet.exe must be - deactivated.
But I am too claustrophobic and impatient! I am not a robot!
Me with sing you won't time next,
C, B, A's my know I now,
Z, Y, X,
W, V, U, T,
S, R, Q.
P, O, N, M, L, K, J, I, H.
G, F, E, D, C, B, A.
I've forgotten the last line.

⁂

And now, a line graph.
Every moment down from the 'Past' to the 'Future' we travel up the Cosmic Elevator. (Objective Time or Duration)
At the same time, and place, we mark each moment from the Past to the Future, from left, to right. This is OUR time, our history.
(Subjective or Sociocultural Time)

Down to up, left to right.
Some days everything was always like this.
Other days everything was always like that.
And this is why.
Don't confuse them.

⁂

My left hand and right hand are two of my best friends.
Sometimes they dance and sometimes they work together.
Sometimes they are intimate. Sometimes they are seen at war.
Sometimes they help each other. Sometimes they just help.
Sometimes one of them is dominant, but the other always stands by.
Sometimes they coordinate without needing my eyes.

⁂

How do we define the Worth of a Human Being if not by their Money?
We invented Money, but Money still defines Worth.
If something is expensive, it is Worth a lot. Something that is Worth no Money is worthless.
People have varying degrees of Money. Some people have no Money.
So if we are not to define the Worth of a Human Being by their Money, how do we define their Worth instead?
And if we are to define their Worth by something else, have we then redefined Worth?
And if we have redefined Worth, ought we then to redefine Money?
And if we ought not to redefine Money, how are we currently defining it?

⁂

When you tell yourself you're going to buy some tea, if it shines obviousness,

You make going to buy tea more real,
And having tea more real,
And drinking tea more real.
When you tell yourself you're capable, if it shines obviousness,
You make yourself acting capably more real,
And then become more capable.
This containeth the keys to Manifestation.
Manifestation, is.
Resistance, isn't.

⁂

Light and Dark don't cancel out,
Because there's still so much to see.
Good and Bad don't cancel out,
Because there's still so much to do.
Perspective and Reality don't cancel out,
even if Believing should be Seeing,
Life and Death don't cancel out,
Because here we are to say it now!

⁂

Esoteric wisdom is not logically inconsistent, but fractal and structured in degrees. Don't confuse them.
Everything in moderation, including moderation.
Moderation is then a fractal.
Sufficient Insufficient.
A sufficient Whole will entail a collective awareness of insufficiency of its parts.
Whether a Mind, Body, School, or Society,
The Sum outshines its parts.

⁂

Time is Habit.
Habit is Confirmation.
Bias is just a Miniature Law.

Bias is also a Law of Law.
Therefore, Bias is Order.
It is, perhaps, one of the only means to Order there is.
Chaos without balance is Imbalance.
Therefore, Bias, as a Law, is Good.
But Bias as a law against Law, that is, a deceitful one, is against Nature's course of intention.
To go against the Good is not good.
To replace Nature or to build over her is not good.
Human and Nature can be together.
What else is the desirable outcome through aiding Human Nature?

⁂

If Destiny was Real, then a man invented a Time Machine to change the course of history, he would thereby destroy Destiny.
But if after all his time travelling was done, no other time machines would ever get made, whatever history remained after would still be Destined to happen.

⁂

Is just trying to be decent all of decency?
Is just trying to be courteous all of courtesy?
Is all Knowledge just for knowing?
Is trying to have sense all of sense?
Is Good Cause all of Hope?
In either case, the latter five are Common Principles of Character, but today they are Common to far too few.

⁂

Silly on one but profound on the other.
When people say they don't believe in the esoteric, the occult, the spiritual, the magickal.
I shall say.
But what actually is that which you don't believe?

⁂

My life is a rota of too much to know in this moment.
Let us imagine a hero on a screen.
And then we ask. What is a Wand for?
Well simply, it's to do something!
And then we ask. What is a Sword for?
Well simply, it's to prove something!
And then we ask. What is a Cup for?
It is to be filled by something.
And then we ask. What is a Coin for?
It is what you get to show for something.
A Wand before a Wand, is just the right of admission to do what's there to get done.
A Sword comes after a Wand, but a Sword before a Sword is still thinner and younger than a Wand. A Sword is compelled to strike at the issues that are invisible.
A Sword is an idea, the plan, the announcement and the speech.
A Coin is an outdea, the Result, the turnout on the field. A Coin is income through outcome.
Through mastery of craft you attain wealth. The apples have grown from the trees.
As Ch-Chink, so Chi-Ching.
The parents of the Sword and the Coin are even more simple.
Wands are Out. Cups are In.
As B-Donk, so B-Doing.
Wands is Expression. Cups is Impression.
Wands is Action. Cups is Reaction.
If Wand was the Strike, Cups would be the Blow.
If Wands was the Timeline itself, Cups would be its Reflection.
And how did THAT (play) make you FEEL (when you paused)?
In the meantime, I poke at the air and strike a keyboard from the diaphragm. Perhaps some fruit will be borne from my thoughts.
Swords is Intention and can breed into others. Coins is Retention and can breed into others.
With the skill of a knife I can prepare the food.
Son and Daughter.

As I chew I adore.
Father and Mother.
The four before the four.
The Beginning.
The End.

⁂

A genuine act of love to emerge from thought,
Is to stop seeing the person as in the drama,
And force yourself to actually see them,
And thus when you can see them,
And then when you can see them and nothing else,
You have given them themselves to fruit.
And as you see no direction anymore around them, and so know of all directions for them, but none in sight before they are beyond your seeing, as you have intended,
To see the person is to then,
As the stale moment becomes the next one now,
Be ready to see all they could be.

⁂

All children are men waiting.
All men are children that have waited.
Everyone waits. No self waits for anything.

⁂

What is the Social Collective,
The Macro-Neurosophicus,
But a sum of pure and impure Interactions?
Whatever that is, next time we still have better things to do.
But remember, words determine social behaviour!
What is the Cosmic Collective,
But Resonance disguised as resonance,
Or Resonance disguised as dissonance,
Or Resonance undisguised or less disguised at least,

Or Synchrony disguised as disynchrony,
Or Synchrony disguised as synchrony,
Or Synchrony undisguised or less disguised at least,
Colours, microwaves, and x-rays are all different degrees of the same thing.
And tempo and pitch are but different degrees of relation too!
And what is the Cosmic Unity, the Collective (10) as really just what it is, which is (1),
Or (0)?

⁂

I cannot afford neurology.
These days, who can?
Esoteric concerns are same differences.
A communicable exchange of the esoteric kind is one in which the meaning can be isomorphic to any degree of any reality we suppose it can be speaking for.
What is Meaning, though?
I span the Meaning of anything of the full, outwards, spanning 1 to 10,
Within it all forms are Imperfect to the Plain Truth that all suppositions must be had within.
Sometimes my supposition falls under a 9. Crystallised Queenhood; the Tritriangle. Expectant intelligence and assembled in mystery.
And then it is strategic, stubbornly ordered, a complex but militarised form for produce. Then my bullish supposition is probably an 8 whether I know it or not.
If it is readying the crystal weapons after already realising the genuine task of conviction to convince oneself to do it, and do it with sparkle, it is a 7.
If it is after a revelation of situated consciousness after a House of Cards falls, as the slumbering epicentre in the Rough World wakes up to Do The Work, it is a 6.
The Conflict and Struggle to maintain spiritual orderliness and co-operativeness in a disorganised matter-world is a 5.
Or is it? I can never agree.

The material rock, the jump from abyss to Concretion, is a 4. He is Well Enough.
Before the definite we have the supposition.
Interplay is 3.
Duality is 2.
This map is folly compared to the call to open up the real map of such numbers waiting in your Mind. Hence this map has fulfilled its purpose of being a map.
But to have no idea why or what all of the truth is?
It still doesn't matter so much as using the some you have.
Know you use the set of the thoughts, ideas, sentences, and signals you have now.
The body comes later.
Stop going with unhealthy flows, and stop deliberately manifesting unhealthy things.
Then manifestation of masculine effort and flow of feminine acceptance shall be balanced as good things in both principles of gender, not bad things, have the space to arrive onto you.
Then, the next moment provides a development of the set you have now into what one could call a different set at some point.
We are walking and talking, we are forms that form and are forming our own forms and others and formed by ourselves and others.
Avoid what shouldn't, and only then, shall you receive what should.
But beware of sophisms. They are geometries at their finest, and at worst, delusions.
In which all tethered and specific geometries shoot off from, go through The Circle.
Then you need to know nothing about that.
And then...
It comes.

⁂

KAPPA

It is the most powerful leap to jump faithfully into the irrational and liminal.
Let all coincidence, synchrony, and Divine Messages from the Self and Beyond converge.
It is not gullible to let things converge. It is the pincer.
In the same breath, a rebirth search looks to others like suicidal steps.
Birth and death look close to the overworried.
Go in anyway.
Thank your Self later.
They asked me to instruct this very message to you, my lost traveller.
Keep your physical body safe from death, and do not pretend until all else is killed.
I love yourself. Now, die you!

⁂

The only problems, hurdles, or causes of your dissatisfaction are the exact same things you are too nervous or complacent in getting rid of.
Do you want to notice them finally?
Procrastination is masturbation.
Kill your darlings.
Kill them all.

⁂

One cannot get Good unless one is removing Bad.
One should destory bad things,
Not instory good things, instead. The good comes naturally.
The Story of You is not just a story but it is what is good.
And everything that clutters between You and Life is the enemy of what you yearn for; Yourself.
Life is the goal.

Find everything remotely endangering and terminate it.
Let the world become naked by removing each and every cloth that you are suffocated by.
Every name in your room that you can, company or otherwise.
Yes, them.
Even every person you can.
Every symbol and application you can.
Every photo, conversation, or place you can.
Every opinion and perspective you can.
Every plan you can.
Every food and drink you can.
Every song, show or media you can.
If you are ready to do that, there's nothing else you need to consider.

⁂

Your feelings are not questions to answer. You shan't need to answer a feeling like it is one.
Instead, just feel it.
Nor do your assuring phrases deserve to be stored in a treasury to receive phonetic dividends.
Your experience is not allied to a formal conceptual sector.
No, don't do that. Instead, experience it.
Money. Language.
Capitalism. Media.
Neoliberalism. Visual Technologies.
Algorithms. Virtual Reality.
Value is now conceptual! It displayeth.
Concepts are the real value now! It simulateth.
Thus arrived the Siamese Hydra of Money-Language - the binding agent of our present day Overlay.
Ideas are worth the most?
Worth is now represented as an idea?
Ideas are language.
Worth is money.
Now a mutant has arrived.
The Siamese Hydra of Money-Language.

Two words with one stone. Read one get one free!
No time for life. A new timeline for it.
You have properly moved forward up the ladder of the Siamese Hydra of Money-Language.
And now your success is within Valuable Concepts to attain Conceptual Value. The language of money for the money of language.
Money-Language.
Not just money but also language. Not Money and Language.
The Siamese Hydra of Money-Language.
I like to like and like likens liken.
This book has valuable concepts! Recite them and you will receive conceptual value!
No, enough.
Exist instead autonomously.
Walk across the Siamese Hydra of Money-Language, and see it is just a stiff tangle of knots.
You are alive.
It was not.

⁂

Alchemy.
Things are more changeable with an increase of their temperature.
Also, things are not what they seem.
Therefore, the schizophrenic has a much more fluid grasp of reality, because his Mind is hot.
The logistician is of a cold Mind - he is stuck in his ways. He will never change.
The alchemist and the psychonaut increase temperature at will.
They cool off, if they do, somewhere New.
Insanity is like a heat of reality. Through high temperatures new doors may be discovered and plummeted through and to the same door once open on one side; now closed from the other side, things are, yes, different.
But also! The doorways are part of the Mind.

And the various minds as you can comprehend them are all part of one, or more, doors.
Lastly, there is a much larger segment of this discovery through Alchemy. But that last part is unwritable, because that last part is something New.

⁂

Opinions and beliefs are useful, but I prefer to avoid giving them to people.
Nothing is more important than Freedom.
Even freedom from one idea of freedom, because that idea would be one idea, and would obstruct someone else's.
Truth be it, not everything goes - I just don't know what freedom is exactly and don't want to pretend I do.
What about Love? I hear you ask. Yes, Love is another Light like Freedom is.
Happiness? Strength? Wisdom?
All in vain without freedom, all degrade without it, because Freedom is the means by which these other Lights can be realised properly.
Freedom is the Container and the Current.
Just as God is the Causeless Cause, so is Freedom the Lightless Light. The Bulb.
Freedom is the Light-for-Lights.
Love is a Light. Freedom is the Bulb for Love.
Happiness is a Light. Freedom is the Bulb for Happiness.
Without Freedom, all other Lights are intransmissible. Without their source they will wither and mutate!
Freedom First.

⁂

Responsibility.
What is such a thing?
It is not quite Duty.
Duty is something more specific. Duty is something different.
One needs sufficient Wisdom first to find Joy in Duty.

Responsibility is much more general.
What is Responsibility? It is just your ability to respond to things.
That's all.
The ability to be responsible for what you are responsible for may be the biggest privilege a human being may have.
And if you aren't responsible for anything you have nothing that is really yours!
You choose to be responsible for the things you value. As you should!
It is a privilege to be responsible for the things you love, because then what that love is contained within is sovereignly yours.
Even a child is responsible for their toys. If not, are the toys not their parents instead?
Responsibility is a burden? Responsibility is strain?
No, responsibility has gravity. If it was effortless to change what you were responsible for from one moment to the next, then there would be no weight to your relationship to it. It would hardly be yours, and hardly be valuable.
Thus the Weight of Responsibility is like the Weight of Firewood and the Axe.
You cannot warm your home with fleeting fancies!
And why would you think that you wanted otherwise?

⁂

Each morning, Simon flips a coin.
If the coin lands tails, he lives the day like it was his last.
If it lands heads, he lives the day like it was his first.
His name is Simon Anderson.
What's your name?

⁂

Everything starts and ends Here and Now.
But also, there are no such things as Here and Now that much,
Nor There and Then.

Rather Everywhere expressed in something that seems to be Here, and Everywhen expressed in something that seems to be Now.
This within that.
I know it looks like a miniscule aperture!
I know, I know, I know, I know.
But everything that you are experiencing is still the Mind.
And every Mind is still revealing THAT.
It's squashed, I know.
I know, I know, I know.
But it's still what I said.

⁂

Many people get lost in the rituals and tales of witchcraft and Occult,
They never go the full way, the right way, the way back Home.
This is the true purpose of the Occult. The fire exits.
Here's something.
The Occult shows that everything comes back to you.
This makes you something of a Hidden God, doesn't it?
But then again, the same applies to everyone.
This second point must be addended by pointing out that our experiences happen in reality.
So then, the Occult puts you back in the centre of your own life, and life becomes real again.
The vividity of yourself and the vividity of life.
What then?

⁂

If you want to find the truth, be free, you need to say yes to two questions;
Do I Wanna Know? and
Am I Willing To Find Out?
Then you've set the intention,
And you'll see.

⁂

What is reality?
It cannot be contained in a philosophy.
It cannot be articulated, only experienced.
Reality is self-evidence.
Reality is integrated being.
Reality is unobstructed experience.
Reality is auraless aura.
Even if one cannot arrive there fully, if there is a practical approach limit per predicament, it can still be approached from away from its opposite - illusion.
Reality is the total of all sense perceptions vivified and associated with itself.
Why do people hide it and from it?
The body.
A holiday is nice. Why live anywhere else other than reality? No good reason. No good reason whatsoever.

⁂

Here's what it's like.
The Problem is like a puzzle, disguised as a game.
Escape!
Never mind the games that the problem creates. Points numbers games, valuable conceptual experiences, getting there, getting where? Getting nowhere, nowhere!
Life is not a game. The problem is not a philosophical or psychological game, even if the problem is made up of lots and lots of miniature conceptual games.
Neurology is fried and remoulded for the Hungry Game, to miss the smog, the obese, the blaring headlights and the sounds of the jittering public. They're all mad.
Your True Self calls from Outside the Problem.
Which problem? Exactly. You say that, because you do not know what you are doing when trying to escape.

It feels like a game because of the mechanics your mind has to undertake to set itself free. It seems like the right moves must be played, and at the right time.
You must ‘win’ it seems.
Not so. Really, the problem is your puzzle. It is all of ours. A prison is not a game. Unlock the right combination as if it were a puzzle. When you are free from a prison, you have not ‘won’. You have become free. Do not think your life is not your birthright. Other people have not lost because you are free. The problem does not ‘lose’ because the problem isn’t a player. The problem appears to be a player of a game within the problem itself. But this is not a game. This is not for fun. This is learning how to see again, how to walk again, unlocking the right doors to maintain your life without bondage.
Don’t lie if you don’t understand. Look around you. You are alive. How about that?
Life does not win itself. You unlock it.
Game Over.

⁂

Why; automatic divinity disguised as tailored ideologies.
Where is that which everything does revolve, for nightmares, ours or theirs, dreams, or dreams of more reality, or, reality.
How do all things that are so, or seem to be so as well, connect?
How is it so that it is necessary to know? It isn’t!
When do things happen? Then it was now, now it is still now!
Who knows? Know what? I want to know what is or could be, not what I know people think they know but don’t.

⁂

LAMBDA

I Am, I.
I am Subject.
I am Subjective, a Centre of the Universe.
The whole World surrounds me, a Bodily Centre, Abundantly,
I am a Blessing, and I am Blessed.
I am a Subject, a Personal Centre Within All.
I Create and Discover Subjectum Through Meaning and Connection,
More Meaning is my goal, the goal!
I am Subject looking over Objects.
Now all Magik, Magick, and Magic is understood to me, to me!
Only Real subjects can be appeased and enriched with Meanings.
I am Whole, I am Clean, I am Real!
Now I am Subject, Everything around me is Alive.
Without Subjects the World is a Waiting Stage.
As a Subject I with Objects complete Reality.
Such Truths so Profound they cannot be Thought.
Only through Feeling is this so Obvious.
Through Feeling and Subjectum I think even better than Thinkers.
When will they Know?
The World is set up Perfectly,
I can find limitless depths to the Significance in Myself, and my Subjectivity.
The World cannot be set up any other way!
No other Real Experience than by a Subject.
Where else? Who else?
All I have to Know I am Divinity is to Know I am Subject.
The Light on Me is for the Light in Me.
It was Me all Along, I was Hidden in Plain Sight!

⁂

There's no difference between life and death.
There is truly no such thing as either.
That which you are is both life and death.

The Afterlife is Life after Death, the Foredeath is the Life before Death.
Lest a man be born again, he cannot enter the Kingdom.
Heaven is Earth.
The after life is life itself without the thought of being called it.
You are recycling atoms every moment changing, there is no finitude.
Existence is Infinite.
You are Infinite beyond Life and beyond Death.

⁂

What is existence?
Now before we answer this question we must see it as an answer.
What IS existence, or, existence is a what.
What is a what?
A what can be defined as a sum totality.
Existence creates sum totalities, like bricks and houses and carpets.
We can collectively measure those things and call them sum totalities, sum things.
These are whats of existence.
But existence is not merely a what.
Existence is not just a how either.
Therefore the question “What is existence?” is rather meaningless.

⁂

That world is a playground whether you are rich or not,
Everything in our world is a combination of matter and mind.
As everything is part-mind, creativity is the same thing as discovery.
All material things that are real are real.
All material things that are unreal are unreal.
All mental things that are real are real.
All mental things that are unreal are unreal.
All mental affairs real or unreal occur in one world.

⁂

Evil is an ulcer on a beautiful nature.
We ought to be good. Bad isn't good enough.
Good is already good. But good is automatically more fundamental than bad, because it is the aim. And it is an aim through familiarity from before the bad got in the way, so it is also the beginning.
Good is the Source and the Destination. Good is the beginning and the end. The middle part cuts things off. But that's not the end of history. It is the start.

⁂

Yes, being around too many for too many hours indeed elicits doubt in one's own practices.
Nevertheless.
The only thing that exists cannot be named, including names.
Everything is self-existent.
The Sun is larger than the Moon, the wider memories are always the better ones than the dark.
My only cramps are illusions,
Reality itself is too complete to be afraid.

⁂

Neurosophy.
Neurosophy is the wisdom about patterns of the nerves. The other way round first, patterns of sense.
Inwardly, it is the sense of patterns.
As noun, so verb, so neurosophy is about the changing of those patterns, whether we call them senses, nerves, signals, or nerves again.
You can reconstruct everything - patterns.
Through insanity cometh a new organisation of experience.
Every thing is part of a pattern.
Every thing can be altered.

Experience can fully transform.
All problems are zombie patterns.
Every all else is good.

⁂

The Sun is Red.
The Moon is Blue.
The Sun is I.
The Moon is Me.
The same with you.

⁂

Neurosophically,
The conditional nervous system is,
The adaptation to fit these illusory networks and conditions of modern thought, transit, and experience.
The more unconditional the nervous system is wired,
The more we are in connection and correspondence to that more sensorily apparent Wider or Whole World.
The inconsistency of our perception and memory,
Renders mutual theory or description of that Higher Reality utterly ambiguous and uncertain.
However, our seeking itself holds the most immense legacy that we could currently hope for.
To do more activity that aligns with the Good or True World,
And to do less activity this aligns with Illusory or Bad depictions of games and networks we forge in this Truer World.
Thus puts the human dogmatist back into action, and ignites their faith that their movement produces far better conditions of experiencing what he assumes he could find answers for, than what he wanted concrete answers for.
I know what a Church is!

⁂

The leap of Faith.

Experimentation, Exercise, and Trust.
Be indiscriminate in one's perception.
Afterwards, let go of all narratives, comparisons, conclusions, beliefs, and ideas.
While doing that your Intellect is brought back down to a personal puppet, ready as and when, and far more competent and appropriately measured.
Trust in the validity of absolutely all this is in your perception and field of awareness, or none.
See like this, act through it, and make no assumptions on anything besides the Mind being entire.
One will immediately see that their Divinity can only be contemplated if one considers all must be part of it.
That means no part of your vision or experience may be cut out of it.
Then one will also see the power in doing things that make no sense externally, for one's internal valley has remembered its significance.
If Mind seeks, and matter doesn't,
And matter doesn't mind or matter,
Mind matters and minds completely.
What are you?
Let the internal back-of-reality lake shimmer as you get sucked into yourself.
You are.

⁂

Verification is a waste of personal time.
It is only needed when it is necessary to verify any one thing in the world to another one thing.
A science experiment without a scientist to live through it.
I notice the number 515 and then 616.
There they are.
Did I miss random numbers?
Absolutely.
Did I consider what they meant?
Absolutely.

Was I right?
Right about?

⁂

So much insight I lose once I conform to what looks normal on the outside.
Attempt the practices whether they're insane or not.
If you possess no Inner Power or Gateway to Possibility,
It will make no difference ultimately.
And if you possess an Inner Power or Gateway to Possibility,
It will make all the difference.

⁂

MU

The usual reason anyone will do anything is to feel good if they don't already.
But modern souls are quite frigid, they don't love to admit this.
So, they will do things which will indirectly make them feel good.
They will drink, earn, complain, binge-watch, overeat, announce, flatter, receive.
Instead they could practise Yoga and Magick, breathe, summon, meditate, pray, chant, discover - receive.

⁂

If they are spiritually healthier than you, do not drag them down.
If you are spiritually healthier than them, do not let them drag you down.
If you suspect either is possibly happening, assume it is likely that it is.
Then look somewhere else.
The crowd plays collective ping-pong with the eyes.
She looks over here.
Then I look over there.
Now she looks over there.
I'm going somewhere else.

⁂

The Ancients -
The Mind is All.
The Modernists -
The Mind is Hardly.
The Advertisers -
Their Minds are Ours.

⁂

The sceptic asks.

But how can you ever be certain your vision of God wasn't just a delusion? Your perspective is limited. How can you be sure you know anything?
To which the spiritualist replies;
From your angle I totally empathise.
But the reason I knew it was God is because when He showed Himself to me, and as he is God, He also showed me what Knowing is.
The Spiritualist continues;
But since God only shows me things for a limited time and in a limited way, I must leave your table, for after speaking with you I now Know nothing again.

⁂

There is the Innermost and Intimate of which we can talk about.
Then there is the Innermost and Intimate of which we cannot talk about.
That which we cannot talk about is what Mysticism is talking about.
Let's talk about it!

⁂

Oh!
It is as if Heaven on Earth is through the Constellations.
So, even though the Constellations are just connections, Heaven is on their other side.
The only Rule is Kindness.

⁂

Nothing is Purely Abstract.
The only things that Exist are Actual.
I am Actual.

⁂

Constellating.
Connect. You. Connect. You. Connect. You.
More and more things will connect in you.
Arise at a point where so much connects that thy life is complete, thy life makes sense, from the malaise of modern institutions we have to face outside of us, to the subtle inflections of the skin on our face.
Even the subtleties of the soul and the unconscious, all the way down to God.
All of it joins up in you, to you, for you.

⁂

To Hell with what you thought makes sense.
Finalise the connections until externisations are separate to you.
Find connections even where there aren't any, because for you there exactly are.
What is within you is about you. What is outside of you is about you.
Fill yourself with yourself. You are the only thing that you can control.
To Hell with science. You are Living Science, incarnate.
Fill yourself with connections until there is no room to doubt yourself.
You are The.

⁂

I am Faceless yet all I experience is because of myself and for myself.
Nothing else can grab at me.
Experience would be Blissful and Uncategorisable again.
It has been clumsy and I have been weary. Some part of me felt I wasn't supposed to know, but my Self came beckoning.

⁂

I am not inferior to God.

Ourselves and God are just reflections of each other.
Culture is a trap.
No outsider knowledge can try and grab my Self.
Nothing outside can pull my Self towards it, and every single nerve ending in my mind and body is the Truth. Every single impulse means everything. Every single impulse is the unification of Past and Future.
Nothing can penetrate my Self for I am only.
No Camera can seduce me.
I have now finished Defacing myself and now can Face my Self.
All Cameras and Eyes I previously desired are reflections of my own Eyes.
Reality is an Eye.
I am now Reality.

⁂

Kill “In order to”
Kill “Does this mean”
Kill “Because” (Crowley)
Kill “Everyone” (Manly Hall)
Kill “But how do I”
Kill “So should we”
Kill “Would they”
Kill everything you think is somewhere other than and let thy nervous system reveal everything to you, to you, to you.
No more Questions. No more Answers.

⁂

Because you’re never going to know anything outside of thy own consciousness,
That is where the Real Truth lies.
Nothing interests me but what I’m experiencing.
Nothing can concern me but what I’m experiencing.
I married my nervous system.

⁂

Perceptions of Myself of Others.
Perceptions of Others of Myself.
Draw some more lines. Draw how this thing connects to this thing. Do it with everything in thy mind.
The Association Game with Everything.
Mental Geometry.
Eventually you'll face things you weren't ready to prior.
Eventually you'll draw and complete octograms.
They will come round.
Connect everything. And I mean everything.
Connect how COVID-19 is connected to blue masks (that touches the face) is connected to blue skies (freedom) is connected to red leaves (October) is connected to the red pen you held three years ago (working in an office with a scary boss).
Rapid fire joining in all spurious directions.
All will become clear.
Zen teachings neglect structure.
Structure is in the Mind. Without Structure to clear the Space, we are left with just Mess.
To get out of thy own way, you must connect all ways out of relevance.
Hole in the Exit!
Open Fire!

⁂

You are not Self Obsessed.
You are not Self Righteous.
You are not Self Glorifying.
You simply know that everything is experienced through you.
If others cannot get past that hurdle, they are not ready for Truth.
They cannot see you outside of themselves.
You cannot see them outside of yourself.
As well you know! You cannot see anything but something that is seen through Yourself.

But if they insist to be part of a Movement, Crowd, Group, Organisation, or Sect first so much so they cannot keep their centre of vision between their own two eyes,
They are Avoiding Themselves,
and They are Avoiding the Truth.
And in this case those two things mean the same thing.

⁂

It was just a coincidence. Those aren't Divine Messages.
This is said by people who's nervous system omits most of what it is experiencing.
I am sure an argument that a human specimen's prefrontal cortex isn't connecting properly would concern them.
Perhaps then they could start to care that it relates to their mind being that which is no longer connecting properly.
Don't omit anything. Don't block anything.
Mind, body, thought, matter. Doesn't matter.
Experience everything.
Widen thy consciousness, let it relax into the widening.
Find out.
The keys will be closer than you remember.

⁂

They are lost in a trail, halfway through one hair and halfway to another. Unwilled wisps.
To be Unawake is to have a Fragmented Consciousness.
To be Individual is to be Indivisible.
Tie up thy loose neural ends!
Complete the polygons!

⁂

All that talk of expanding Consciousness, raising Consciousness,
the Origin of Consciousness, the nature of Consciousness.
As if it was a Hypothetical Consciousness, an Abstract
Consciousness, an Impersonal Consciousness.

Why do those who speak in this way not discover their own Consciousness, the only consciousness that can be experienced?

⁂

Unlike the Cave, most philosophical questions are revealed as inappropriate or irrelevant to an Illumined person.
They are done by Theoretical Beings with a Fragmented Consciousness.
Their goals and wishes lie as boxes above their heads. Activity seems to be a hurdle to those in Cave-mindedness.
They also seek Answers which exist not for Queries which they can Comprehend not.
For the Illumined, Knowledge, theory, and literature looks very different indeed.
They are connected to all of it but in a different way. They see Mental Associations with Allegorical and Fictional texts.
Everything becomes a Mental Resource for the Eye to Read.
Even written scientific fact is a Mental Resource for the Eye to Read.
Everything becomes correspondent and catered to the Eye.
Most philosophical questions are inappropriate or irrelevant.

⁂

One cannot be Taught Illumination.
One can only be Taught how to Experience Illumination.
And will Enjoy it.

⁂

To have the Intellect and Character of a Man,
And the senses and experiences of a Child.

⁂

You are the Cosmic Centrestage of Experience!
Dilate Yourself!

Stop fracturing thy Consciousness to other places, people, events, ideals.
It's only here and now.
Slip into your Consciousness like quicksand.
Reality is infinitely immersive.
Cosmic Body; meaning that the only possible Everything you can Unlock is this Everything.
You are as large as any imagined Universal Cosmos you already had in thy Universe.
Now establish thy Universe properly.
This squareth the circle.
Don't Dilute Yourself!
Dilate Your Self!

⁂

Magic might either be fraudulent or violating Nature's ordinarily understood Laws.
Magick Affects how we read Reality. It may then also affect Reality.
I am uncertain how to distinguish the two for the common moderner.

⁂

What is existence? What is reality? Is there a God? Is there a World?
Crowley put it best.
"Something is."
At least we have this.
As for hidden mystical truths, I risk repeating myself.
Thy perception is the only thing that can be experienced, so start there, and only there.
You will find everything you can possibly need to find through that.
Even if it sounds like a tall promise, it is logically true also.
Because the only things you can need to find out are the things it is possible to find out through your own perception.

Was that actually obvious?

⁂

Nothing lasts Forever.
Nothingness is Which Lasts Forever.
The Absence of Ideas, and Illusions, Is the World.
The World is Nothingness.
Nothingness is Allness.
It is what is meant.

⁂

How to Resolve the Paradox that the All is Good and yet also Conflicted, a Dual of Good and Bad.
How can we suppose that Good is Almighty, and yet the world is a Mutual Fight of Good and Evil?
Well, they only seem to be opposing forces due to semantics.
Bad is a very different sort of thing to Good.
Only that can be testified through Spiritual Experience.
Let us suppose that the All is Water, and Existence is the Stream.
Existence is its truest most normal format. Water inherently flows. It is then Good.
The more that Water is revealed and displayed as what it truly and already is, the more it is revealed to be Good.
Therefore, as All is Water, and Flow is its Existence, All is Good.
If we then imagine that the Halt of Water freezes its Nature, we can define this as Bad.
Bad is then the contortion, blockage, and halting of the truth of its Nature.
But no matter how long the stream is blocked, however many months or years the process is caught in a dead end, the Good is not destroyed, only Paused.
So while Badness has visceral perception, it is nonetheless an Illusion, for while Nature is Invisible when Paused, it is irreducible.
Suffering, clinging, contortion, bad stories, and even Evil can then be understood as both Opposed to Good and also Unreal.

If this metaphor is not satisfying, then let us imagine Life as a Journey, and Bad as the Traffic Jam.
The Traffic Jam adds nothing to the Journey itself.
But, let us escape the false notion this the Journey is only one line from Past to the Future,
We must then close the circuit of this Metaphor.
Life is a Journey of All Possible Directions, such might be considered as the Directions of the Cosmos and its Frequencies, and Interactions.
Just as in the Connections of the Nerves of the Human Body and Brain.
The world is emptiness. The world is motion.

⁂

Divinity is so hard to speak about, yet those who have experienced Divinity can.
Let us imagine a small ladder.
Let us suppose the bottom of the ladder is sorrow and the top is happiness.
Divinity is the Sun.

⁂

Silicon Micro-Chipping through the Fingertips and Skeletal Network.
Trainer and fast food companies. Vaccinations, sterilisations.
Hypnotic advertising. Happy despair.
Corruption of the heart and war of the mind.
Ketamine distribution networks.
Generic impotence.
The only thing to do is drugs.
If Satan was a villain, this is his doing.
Our Generation has lost so much of its Soul and they don't even know it.

⁂

J am not a banner boy.
J am not a genre.
J am not a receptionist.
J am not a restaurant.
J am not a text message.
J am not a circle.
J am not a resource.
J am not a commodity.
I can bask in my own mind.
I make my mind (and the world) a place to bask in.
I am a Supreme Being.

⁂

There is no edge anyone can observe between the Psychosomatic and the Real,
The Experienced and the Existent.
All we know is that it pours in from the Circumference, and anything not Read is Subliminally Effective instead.
That's all, folks.
The All is Here.
Here is Now.

⁂

I admit I had spoken to some dubbed Naughty Men.
After a while, "Get Real" pervaded every light of being, my entire soul.
I'm not sure how I can really describe things after that.

⁂

I have a key to open every lock.
I just have to learn how to share.

⁂

Lower and Higher Levels of Comprehension.
Notice them.
Trust the Higher ones.
And your conclusions in them, however temporary the comprehension.
Go towards.

NU

Go away.
Spotify, YouTube, and Netflix.
The Video and Audio Timeline.
Skip to the end.
We never really had that before.
The whole Timeline at once.
No wonder everyone's doing the Time Warp again.
We were never supposed to visualise that we could see the whole song from beginning to end at once.
Time is supposed to be like a valley, from one unknown moment, to the next, to the next.
Now it is one band, a width irrelevant, but which cascades every moment of the beauty back onto itself.
An Omnipresent Moment.
One dead end after another dead end.
A song, 3 minutes in length, no longer takes me 3 moments into the New or Actual Future anymore.
And I know that dreaded Artificial Timeline has something to do with it,
Where I can pick apart each moment of a finished dead song just like it never or always already happened.
Remember that we each have a future, and we don't know what it is.
We could go and find out, if we just kept listening.

⁂

Magic is the Personal Art of knowing it is necessary to do things that seem unnecessary.
Especially to the extent that they seem unnecessary to do, that is a better opening to what is through the Abyss.
You cannot exploit thy own experiences, don't even try.
Love, commentary, sharedness. Those things aren't you!
Commodification - you aren't C!
It is just as when you compress experience and things, this is when you become compressed.

No door is unopenable. Everything is relevant. Everything is the Solar Constant.

⁂

The Colourless Peach Mind Body,
In a Sphere Beyond Black.
The Unconditional Womb of Cosmic Silence,
And The Freshness of All Hairs is Exquisite.
I am unchained.
I have nothing ever to say.

⁂

Bob Dylan was not quite right.
The answer is not blowing in the wind.
The answer might be that which blows in the wind.
But that answer is distilled within.
And you ought not to blow in the wind.
You ought to fly with strong and sensitive wings, but on thy own course.
You are an eagle, not a leaf.

⁂

It's not your head. It's the web.
The way to overcome mental illness is to recognise the dystopia we live in as what it is clearly.

⁂

3 + 1 = 4. A square has four sides. 4 - 1 = 3. A triangle has 3 sides. 3 + 1 = 4. A square has four sides. 4 - 1 = 3. A triangle has 3 sides. 3 + 1 = 4. A square has four sides. 4 - 1 = 3.
A triangle has 3 sides. 3 + 1 = 4. A square has four sides. 4 - 1 = 3. A triangle has 3 sides. 3 + 1 = 4. A square has four sides. 4 - 1 = 3. A triangle has 3 sides. 3 + 1 = 4.
Why are these such obvious facts so significant to read?

As I constellate more and more, I start to recognise in and out tautologies, obvious clusters of constellations, so many moments, and in so many ways. The sky is blue, so is my flag. So is the sky. So is my flag.
My wallet has money. Shops need money. I write on a phone. I pay with my phone. There are no more payphones.
Once connections are happening in of themselves in all masses, they turn from strands to liquids.
Constellating turns into a general uprising of Consciousness.
The walls of the Labyrinth fall away, tunnel vision collapses, and one's Consciousness starts to become clear again.
My nervous system purges the negative.
The inorganic gets ripped apart and outwards.
Galahad Erinadus.

⁂

Daily consciousness is slavery.
Switch to Clear Consciousness.
Wash thy mind with Spirituality.
How were things for me before all of this happened?
Seeing is Being.
Being is Seeing.
Humans in captivity are nodes on a motherboard.
They can only see one path at a time.
Well done. Look what they've done.
They even need to run to Mr Rationality (one corridor only) to ration them with their fake little answers.
And I am unsure what English was even developed for.
But English, The Tool, is certainly not built to scratch at the surface of the Mysteries of Existence.
It was probably made for filing goods and implementing road laws.
Some isomorphic equivalent.
Import / Export.
Conversation Tunnels.
Conversation Tunnels in English.

English has no business with matters as profound as Being and Seeing.
It cannot even help but split the two apart.
Consciousness? Awareness?
Knowledge? Computers, maybe?
English is no good.
Be wary you remain on the switchboard and neglect to seek the Real Answers.
The Moon was Shining a Dove.

⁂

Self love isn't rude.
Assuming it is is.
Lacking consistent self-love potentially means you could always be there for anyone, if you cannot not always be there for something other than what is for yourself.
Every moment without self-love is an act of self-harm.

⁂

What do chequered carpets and following one's heart have in common?
Non-binary thinking.
Should we think about politics practically or ideally?
The answer is this;
Life doesn't work like that!
If one has such an entrained mind that it thinks in binaries,
The Occult will scurry their perception into a gleaming hall of mirrors, a spiral staircase, a collapse of reason and category.
That's because conditioning and trauma have bitten you.
But perception isn't as simple as left or right.
Nothing is that simple.
When one passes through the rabbit hole, life becomes perfect, in a way.

⁂

Intelligence is not comprehension.
Theorising is not seeing.
Just because you don't get it or understand it, doesn't mean it doesn't make any sense or mean anything.

⁂

The Picture.
I just saw a beautiful sunrise.
If I took a picture, I could only do so with the intent to experience it later.
If I wanted to show someone else, I would experience their imagined reaction.
Or I would imagine an experience. Same difference.
But I would take the photo because I intend the experience to revolve back, in a way, to myself.
And so I experience diminishment though I wanted to experience expansion.
I left my Self out of the picture.
Everyone! Look at this!
I can only experience an experience of seeing a sunrise.
I can't experience anything that is not in my consciousness.
Plainly simple.

⁂

Morning.
All of this is for James Riordan-Waters.
All of this is for James Riordan-Waters.
All of this is for James Riordan-Waters.
Afternoon.
All of this is for James Riordan-Waters.
All of this is for James Riordan-Waters.
All of this is for James Riordan-Waters.
Evening.
All of this is for James Riordan-Waters.
All of this is for James Riordan-Waters.
All of this is for James Riordan-Waters.

Night.
All of this is for James Riordan-Waters.
All of this is for James Riordan-Waters.
All of this is for James Riordan-Waters.
What's your name?
Continue as follows.
Take my name out and replace it with yours.
With your voice, say the mantra three times in the morning, afternoon, evening, and night.
Just in case it wasn't obvious that this was the suggestion.

⁂

I downloaded a picture of the Mona Lisa.
I couldn't tell what it looked like beyond my subjective limitations,
So I dissected each pixel and organised it in order of ascending brightness.
Now I know what she looks like!

⁂

XI

One part of opening the heart is not letting the head open up new lines of enquiry to chase.
And Ego,
What is it you really want anyway?
What do you want, Ego?
Nothing!
You pathetic needer. You're not even protecting me.
Off you go. I set you free.
Everything I can feel is everything I should feel.

⁂

Avoiding representations of reality for a week will do you splendour.
Entertainment is our enemy.
Life is what it's supposed to be.
The Imposter Nervous System has met its demise.

⁂

To fully realise what something is is to transcend it.
In God's World, nothing is irrelevant.
A Perfect Truth is a Perfect World.
Truth is above reason. I am above reason.
Nothing is too good to be True.
Nothing is too good for me.
Evidence supporting that claim is that the limits of thy Life Reality are the limits of thy Imagination.
Suffering is Imperfection.
Imperfection is the fraction of a Wholeness in a Thing.
To fully realise things is to transcend them.
As I fully realise things I transcend them.

⁂

A symbol or image of an experience unlocks that experience.

But creating a symbol of an experience can lock that experience.
We had a nice evening on the beach.
I took a photo, and now all I can remember is the photo.
Someone there forgot the whole day, so I showed them the photo,
And Now they Remember Everything.

⁂

One way to widen your consciousness is to see through illusions.
One way to see through illusions is to speak clearly.
One way to speak clearly is to stay feeling in the heart.
One way to stay feeling in the heart is by having a solar plexus based on sincerity.
One way to have a solar plexus based on sincerity is to release control of your guts.
One way to release control of the guts is to open and straighten your tailbone.
One way to open and straighten the tailbone is to become aware of it.
Becoming aware of your tailbone from unaware, is itself a widening of consciousness already.

⁂

All emotions must be fulfilled.
Like an electric current, emotions need to have a flow all the way from the entrance to the exit.
Fear is anxiety fulfilled.
Anxiety is fear paused, clogged, wretched and turned on itself.
Anxiety is not a real emotion.

⁂

I bless every event as it happens as a success.
Every word I speak emerges from the Divine Pattern.
FUCK.
Fearless Union with the Christ Kingdom.

SHIT!
Simply Harnessing Illumined Timing.
CRAP.
Creating Rhymes of Absolute Perfection.
CUNT.
Creating Union with Nexus Tremendously.
PAIN.
Perfecting Alignment, Illuminating Nox.
LOVE.
Letting an Open Veil Enlighten.
HATE.
Harnessing All Tremendous Effortlessness.
FOUR.
Faithfully Open, Unresisting.
WHAT?
We Hold Absolute Truth.
LORD.
Law Opens, Received with Demonstrations.
WILL.
We are Inspired by the Light of Life.
HURT.
Harnessing Union by Repairing Thought.
GIVE.
Getting Intuition Very Easily.
TAKE.
Transmuting and Abiding by Kind Expectancy.
RACE.
Reality Affirms the Christ in Everyone.
WORD.
Working Opulently in the Realm of Divinity.
GOOD.
Gracious Openness Of Divinity.

⁂

As now, so always.
I now and so always scan my body everywhere, for listening to what it signals for me.

I now and so always delicately craft each word I utter.
I explore the potentiality in everything.
What could this cup be?
What could this window be?
What could this butterknife be?
What could this finger be?
What could this feeling be?

⁂

Emotions are Divine Intelligence.
Intelligence Injected with Life.
If you haven't got anything Faithful to say, don't say anything at all.

⁂

The illusion.
The illusion is that there seems to be an illusion.
But an illusion cannot be.
Therefore there is no illusion.
To step out of the illusion is to realise there is no illusion.
There is no illusion, there is only Reality.
Not Matter, not Mind, not Simulation, not Signs.
The Absolute-In-Itself - mostly considered to be Life or Being by some freer folks.

⁂

Happiness.
Being happy isn't just how you feel.
Being happy is being happy about how you feel.
Happiness isn't an action.
Happiness is a Reaction; a sensible reaction to Life - the Everlasting Action.
Life is Natural Intelligence.

⁂

Love and Light is Not,
We are the ones that mush together in happy chants, creating a goo will dissolve all suffering or ego into a buzz.
The Heart is, Love and Light is;
If you turn up at our door late at night with a packed suitcase and eyes full of tears, we are the ones that will actually do something to help you, take you in, and whatever you need. We are the ones that care.

⁂

One can choose to do what they want to say.
Say you want to be happy!
But one cannot choose how they feel.
One can choose to be receptive to how they feel and where.
Not to interrupt it, or interpret it, for a moment.
Heart feels are a mixture. But the whole mixture must be felt, gaping open.
Padlock your gob.
Be Mute for the Heart, and the Heart's eyes will open.
Discover it to completion, and then just let it.
The congregation awaits your speech, they linger, they poise to grab you.
You linger too, in Faith, and you stay silent.
Chicken F.M. cannot take you now.
Be Mute for the Heart.

⁂

And could it be one?
Everything in the universe is reflecting everything else in the universe?
And that as you look into your mind and your inner world, the universe changeth?
Could it be two?
Nature is constantly changing?

⁂

OMICRON

Interesting.
People talk, but your consciousness is exclusively yours, nobody can ever get to it or know it.
Only you can have your local experience.
But also, you cannot have any idea outside of your own consciousness, even ideas of yourself.
Just this consciousness you're currently having.
Interesting.

⁂

Yes, I'm enlightened.
I unconsciously and consciously know this to be real, that's why.
You're not? Why?
Because you consciously know this life of yours is real.
But you unconsciously don't.
So the tension facilitates the Matrix.
Awkward right?

⁂

The deepest desire is the truest way.
All things that are truly necessary for you are things that you deep down really want.
And all those things that you deep down really want are things that are necessary for you.
That is because you are one unit.
You are one.
You are your life and no-one else's.
You and your life and nothing else.

⁂

Divination is a large deck in which something will happen as opposed to another.

Magic is revision.
Life is the exam.
My choices are constant and infinite.
Which shall I pick and be glad of? Which shall I pick and be regretful for?
Everything is progressive to my future.
My infinite evolving and reconstructing examination.
Earth is a school and the Sun the summer holidays afterwards.

⁂

I know that inwardly you may still feel too restless to deserve happiness, still eager to serve some Higher Beings.
But those Higher Beings are mainly us, only we are hidden from ourselves in Larger Rooms.
When you are trapped in a Smaller Room,
Feeling dissatisfied, numb, or productive,
Remember you can and will Unlock the Larger Rooms,
Those rooms are of lives, past current, or even past,
Of genuine Joy, Peace, Love, and Spaciousness.
Those longing memories you feel is that awareness of a Larger Room when you are stuck inside a Small Room.
Breathe. See with your heart.
Harmonise with this Truth however you can.
Just unlock yourself and enter.
You won't be stuck forever.
You're just pathworking with what you've got, honey.
We get it.

⁂

What did it feel like to not have a life?
Eek, now you must feel like a maths problem.
Well, you and your life are basically the same thing.
Phew! Problem solved.

⁂

PI

Some energised people leave you without energy.
Some energised people leave you with loads of energy.
This is the difference!
Your energy is a conductive field, built from manipulating energy, outside, inside, semantic, or somatic.
The ability to manipulate energy is facilitated by streamline and momentum.
The reason the Earth moves around the Sun is momentum. The stars bend from momentum.
Canary Wharf isn't going anywhere.
When you are building momentum, and others move out of the way for your flow to grow, your energy will rapidly grow.
If they join in, surfs up, dude.
If you are interrupted or cut off mid sentence, while in those crucial moments where momentum starts to build up, your energy grinds to a halt and you deplete.
If you are grabbed during processing or in a musing trance, you will deplete.
If your flow-state is stopped because you need to smile at someone's joke before the show goes on, your spin gives way to theirs.
Get out of the way for others' conductivity to cultivate organically - and from your centre, so the genuine source of electricity - not coming from the shoulders or wrists.
That is how a puppet is strung along.
Make deliberate room for others energy to grow if they are depleted, or provide them tracks to ramp up momentum if they have none.
If they are building up momentum, join them on that momentum, or invite them to join you on others.
Do not speak if you do not have to.
True Union.

⁂

Christian visions terrify me.

They put me in awe.
Awe makes me happy.
Awe is more awesome than happy.

⁂

Me: What is the universe made of?
You: But it isn't made!
Me: But what kind of substance is it?
You: It isn't a kind!
Me: But what is the fundamental substance of matter?
You: Matter!
Me: What is the fundamental substance of my thoughts?
You: Thoughts!
Me: So what substance is the absolute substance?
You: The absolute.

⁂

RHO

I need to not think about my life or consciousness so much.
We have to distinguish between words and what the words mean.
Truth First.
Don't say anything untrue.
Words.
Distinguish between words and what they mean.
Why have I been served roast dinner?
I ordered the term!
Once you separate representations from realities, reality becomes much more yours.
And representations are separate from reality.
Welcome to your unfolding.

⁂

To be just human is perfection, all of the best virtues and beauties of reality are revealed when one discards anything outside of their nature and is just human.
You have to be dishonest about the world to avoid alienating people, even people you love.
When you don't have to do anything, do what you want!

⁂

Worry is a Feeling, an unnatural one at that.
There is no-thing that one is worried about.
There is no some-thing to go and get doing.
Everything One thinks about is created through One's present feelings.
The Moon is the Sun but only less heated.
I am myself but only less metered.

⁂

Cognitive dissonance is not your fault.

Because you are naturally cognitively resonant and something came in and disrupted that.
Let your body heal itself.

⁂

Manifestation.
It’s all about having goals you definitely want, and not about having the biggest most glamorous goals. This is crucial.
It's all about finding the things you want that you won't change your mind on.
The goals do not come later.

⁂

I feel, I think, I assume, I am, I figure, I reckon, I see, I hear, I talk, I read, I type, I change.
I breathe. I blink.
I taste, smell, and touch.
I affect.

⁂

Sometimes, I say things as they are. I speak towards Truth.
Sometimes I am joking.
Sometimes I am being metaphorical.
Sometimes I am being sarcastic.
Sometimes I am being ironic.
Sometimes I am exaggerating, or understating.
Sometimes I am explaining something.
Sometimes I am giving my opinion.
Sometimes I am general and sometimes specific.
Sometimes I am being imaginative.
Sometimes I am being suggestive.
Sometimes I make estimations. Sometimes I attempt to say things factually.
Sometimes I am blurting random words out.
Sometimes I use idioms and catch-phrases.

Sometimes I use cliches.
Sometimes I associate things with labels.
Sometimes I don't say anything.

⁂

In life, unless in very special cases, you don't win or achieve any-thing by doing or saying any-thing.
You receive and you give things.
That's it.

⁂

Man is a Theatre; Society is the Play.
Life is the Party, and Society the Festival to have it at.
The World is the Stage for the Soul of Man.
The World is a Garden for Nature.

⁂

SIGMA

The only way to be assertive, to be a Man.
It is to completely shut off from forcing facial expressions.
It is to be completely in touch with and do exactly what one feels in the present moment.
From one moment, to the next, to the next.
To be asserting is to be without betraying it.
It is to let it show you what you want.
To allow it to change every moment,
To be totally lazy and focusing on removing any immediate stress first.
To breathe into the belly.
To know that stress is stored within, and the rest of the body follows a release from the guts.
The mind's thinking is not negative.
The negative feelings can only be 'fixed' through a total alignment with how you feel in body and feeling.
This is regardless of hypothetical scenarios.
Regardless of what you think people might be thinking.

⁂

TAU

To avoid feeling like Life and its tasks are physiologically indistinguishable from gambling, tell the Truth.
The Arcade Society has many thoughts and words. Untether - Now.

⁂

And the Woman entering through the Tunnel asked us some questions.
Why am I writing this?
What do I want to enjoy?
What is the easiest way to become happier?
What is the next best thing I could start doing?
What do I gather from my organic senses?
What am I not under?
If I was fully free, what would I be doing?
If I was untethered, where would I become?
Why would I date some men that prove my strength and persistence, but not others?
What does everyone not need to do today, or, anymore?
What do I sense, think, or feel, with totally just myself?
If everyone's nervous system's are different, is the world there anymore?
If I knew what I wanted, how would it get me?
If I got what I wanted, would it still be there?
How do I get what I want, without getting what I want?
What's the only thing I am?
What else can I trust besides my whole sense?
And then she tried to rest.

⁂

I know the Narrative is not the Truth.
How Ever.
If Jesus is the Truth, what have we got to contend against it?
Good question.

Is Jesus a different species to the rest of Man?
Good answer.

⁂

And everything became a notification which demanded swift completion.
And everything else in life became besides the bloody point.
But He who rejoiced in his clarity said,
I want everyone to feel how I feel.
And He who rejoiced in his clarity said,
Don't overthink it. This will all make sense in the end.
And another said;
How weird Mind is!
No, the man of clarity replied.
How weird it is now.
How weird it has been forced to become.

⁂

And the Woman, Bending through the Tunnel, asked us some more questions.
What are the only things to do?
And she took a deep breath.
How soon to I the presumption that things nay be perfect always ceased to be?
And she pushed further through the Tunnel.
How does my Mind become more mine?
How do I obey myself, for me, myself, and God?
Where are the entrances to better worlds, besides my very Eyes?
How do I become more myself, and less and less anyone else?
How do I know within my world?
What can I see within my worldly Eyes?
When do all other ways of moving altogether cancel out?
Is the only way to exist without effort?
And she rested successfully.

⁂

Being transcends both necessity and unnecessity.
I avoid that which pulls my eyes and ears away from my head, and keep looking and hearing to that which looks and hears back to me.
I went into sacred showering, now unmark me clean of concepts.
Delete everything and everyone, and then become deleted.
Listen to effort and then move it back; put all Body and Mind parts where to where they were.
Uncover all efforts to then have them subtracted.
Focus your last efforts into fighting one thing, and then none.
The only constant is everywhere.
Wash away Time, and Space becomes Eternal.

⁂

My genius is my body.
My mind is also my body.
I am not anybody.
I am my body.
Be your own Mind and Body and Spirit.
Become nothing but.

⁂

Colour is as rich as gold.
Life sees beyond lines.
To wake up and feel not pain but nothing.
To not serve the multitude, but be served in nothing for nothing.
Your attention is sacred.
All of it comes from you.
Become so rich the multitude can't afford your attention.
The key to the wealthiest life is to pay yourself attention.
Nothing can afford my attention.
I have no attention debt.
I am abundant in my own attention.
The reason the multitude are in debt is because they pay everything but themselves attention.

A.D.H.D.
Our attention is priceless.

⁂

And the Woman continued through the Tunnel, enquiring some more.
If God still exists, when will I remember him?
What does God believe?
Does God believe?
If God is, am I?
If God made the World the God of this World, what does that make me?
And then she Remembered her way.
What is the least painful way to move from the present to the future present?
So she continued walking.

⁂

What a normal arrangement of people I see!
It's like everyone's on standby or anything.
Not hello!

⁂

You don't have to be somewhere.
Nobody's going anywhere really.
Be your own, not lost, like the 97%.
There's no such thing as an abstract hurdle for betterment.
Only unnatural interference misperceived.

⁂

Nature is the Key,
Moths drawn to the circle of traffic lights,
The road is not the road signs.

Bodily sensitivity may seem besides the point when it is clearly the first and last point.
Your Body is the Main Grand Architecture of your Life.
Your Senses are the way you connect to your Reality.
All other artefacts and architectures are extensions.
Nature is the Architecture of Reality.
And disembodiment is cured by Nature.

⁂

Some men dress like children.
Some Men don't. Alas,
We go to the places that nobody goes to, or wants to.
And yet that place is Nature,
Attune oneself to Nature with the Five Senses, more than to Society.
For Nature Herself is the Principle of All.
Nature's Calling, don't hang up on Her.
Don't be a Modern Man.
Be a Real Man.

⁂

UPSILON

It is which you see as Secondary to the other;
Option A, your normal, typical, social, work, opinion Life.
Or Option 1, the Pursuit of Reality, Truth, Self-Betterment,
Knowledge, the want for a Better World in this Life.
Which comes after the other?
Which is the interest, which is the walk?
Which comes second to you, which comes first?

⁂

Travelling for Weeks again, Smashing through Glass Tasks.
You need to remove your perceived obligations to others if non-existent, critically examine, find Truth.
Know Untruth is the harm's source.

⁂

To ensure the biggest reality shifts,
You must be so alone,
Even right Now. There is only Now for Now.
Be so alone as with nothing, or everything, so everything can unstick.
Anything is a door if you're Occult enough.
Anything looks charmingly hopeful, even making yourself.

⁂

The Environment that takes you back to the Womb; Real World.
I don't care about things that have no meaning.
The Stupid World is Stupid.
What to do?
Avoid it, then make fun of it if visiting.
Even Life reaches the Tomb.
Death is Empty Repetition.

⁂

Intuition has no linear prerogative;
Even Words that appear,
Reflections between the Inner and Outer.
Depending on the Cleanliness and Unfetterment and Awareness of the Mind.
The Potential for Real-World Effect (Clairovoyance) ought to be explored from a purely Personal or Noble Basis.

⁂

The only When's and Where's of necessity, are for places and times to keep things Well or Improve Aspects.
You cannot get too close to Good.

⁂

Inhale Yes, Exhale No.
Sometimes the break or make or a single decision can be determined by the duration of a single breath.
Does that video?
Well, the title is the movement of the legs and the breath is the doing.
Do what?
Do whatever the moment is, the video says, the lifelong lesson, the archetype does.
Everlasting Prism. Intake it. Breathe your decisions.
Language is a does, not an is.

⁂

Psychosomatic Synchronicity and Synchronisation too.
All body, mind, and emotions follow, topple and dance in a flow based reality.
WHEN DOES IT END?

⁂

PHI

O Law,
Law of Physics,
Cleanse me from Society's Whims.
Law of Chemistry,
Law of Biology,
Cleanse me from Society's Ills.

⁂

Walk.
Walk away.
Walk away from them.
Walk away from the masses.
Walk in their opposite direction; them masses.
Their opposite direction, the masses.
Direction of the masses.
The masses.
Walk away from them.

⁂

All Judgement is misjudgement.
Don't spoil your Mind, lest you be punished by having a spoilt Mind.
Replenish your Mind, as far as it shall go and come.

⁂

Here's how to apply esoteric metaphor, allegory, planetary symbols, as beneficial for your experience of Microcosm and Macrocosm as correspondent;
'It may as well be.'

⁂

Every time, at all time,

See all for the First and Nothing Time.
What is the First?
What is the Last?
Besides What is there no God?

⁂

Reincarnation.
My atoms and the essence between, re-emerge, similar in structure, but constantly changing, reloading, being sensed differently to the last time.
If you do not recollect your past lives yet,
Remember what you did yesterday.
If you cannot remember what you did yesterday,
Remember what you did before you started reading this.
If you cannot remember,
Do not look, but try, as I tried, to remember the first Line I wrote.
How do 'Lives' Divide then?
What is a Life, in any context, or any other word in English, besides the Eye that perceives it?

⁂

Everything is a door.
If you know, don't ask.
Never try to find God through, because, or despite another person.
Anything is Occult if you're observant enough.
When free of artificial entanglements, modern or otherwise, one can sense that their circumference reaches as far as Infinity.

⁂

I like Maybe and Ambiguity.
Who knows.
I like to forget everything.
Pretend I do not know what Life is or Blank it.

When I rediscovered my own perception as if nothing laid between these years prior.
Be in pure and private expression, and then follow my knowing desires.
Where did this line lead?

⁂

CHI

Feel for yourself, cannot feel through anything.
Remove the Authority of Entrails,
Spirit Moleculation Antennas Supraintellingenisers.

⁂

Metaphorical Language is Metaphor within Metaphor, Second Hand Metaphor.
Language is First Hand Metaphor.

⁂

Solve, Coagula, and Oxford Comma.
Coagula and I didn't need it.
Don't hold your breath!

⁂

Ignis.
Don't let me interrupt your vision.
Connect all outside Creation with the Inner Flame and Spark of Curiosity and Interpretation or Move Along.
Everything is a door.
Individual Interpretation is All that can Be...Done.

⁂

Aer.
"Blindly" following your own Intuitive Imagination without care of "External Reference" or scrutiny.
Improvising totally.
Playing with your Mental "Environment".

⁂

Terra.
Create in Nature.
This is not a Side Hobby.
This is the purpose of Man.
Regardless of the quality of the output, this is what Man has always been doing.

⁂

Agua.
Include all Symbols in your Practice or None.
You assimilate Thousands of Others' Symbols already.
You don't get to choose which symbols are for your magickal consciousness and which are for "Mundane Life".
You don't get to choose which order things come to you in, nor the ways in which it is ordered, or when it does.

⁂

All Human Symbols are Connected Via Streams and Patterns and Maps within Space and Time.
All Symbols Sum one Creature.
All Symbols Total one Thing.
All Symbols may as well be Eyes of One Being!
And as I stared into the Symbol, the Symbol stared back into We.

⁂

Om. Notification Bell. Om.
Make your Language Colourful.
Third-party computers have insufficient bandwidth.
Your Mind is Your Sole and Entire Personal Computer.

⁂

What is Tarot?
The ongoing contention with humanity trying to get its shit together.

That's W.H.A.T.
Do people want to know the truth, or just to use it?
Does the truth even need to be known?
That comes in stages.

⁂

Tune into Nature. Not tomorrow. Today.
Not a Big clockface, not an advert screen.
Look at Her.
You will feel her odd way of swatting and squashing and palming away your abstract worries.
Just like that.
Yes, you may initially feel annoyed.
That is because there is nothing to-definite take, nothing to buy, read, click, or say yes to.
When you look at Nature,
Nature was always Alive.
It is we who were dead.

⁂

Imagine that God might exist.
Then, God, or Divinity, can see all of me, my thoughts, and feelings, my secrets, my intentions, my reasons.
Divinity does not merely see me Over me.
In fact, Divinity may see over things.
But Divinity does not see me Over me, but Through me.
Then, everything I think, Divinity perceives through me.
Everything I feel, Divinity perceives through me.
All of my secrets, Divinity perceives through me.
Everything I intend, Divinity perceives through me.
All of my reasons, Divinity perceives through me.
In this sense, Divinity perceives every one of my senses through and through.
God is watching.
Until at last. Divinity can be shown here to perceive absolutely everything I perceive.

So, my perception of my environment and my internal reaction, Divinity perceives.
Even I, the observer, how I perceive, Divinity also perceives.
Divinity perceives that which I perceive, and then divinity perceives my doing the perceiving.
Divinity encompasses all of it, and I cannot escape His Omnipotent Gaze.
And then in a way, I somewhat become what is perceived to me, to be God perceiving me, through me.
When one meditates on this for a moment, whatever conception of God one has, uncannily absorbs into one's own present moment and the Darkness becomes its own Fabric of Light.
Even for the Atheist, a new perceptual faculty becomes unlocked through this meditation.

⁂

I am what I am.
I am an anathiest.
Why care if you care about God?

⁂

PSI

Deprived your brain, hormones and biology if,
You see us as little things encased in an over-nothing.
Better you see, and more you breathe,
If you can access us to be the Smaller Gods and Eternities within an Evermassive GodGod.

⁂

Ideas Substitute Experiences.
Reality is not an Idea.
Discover the Real World through Your Own Experiences.
It is all about Untethering Yourself into Full Self-Sufficiency.
Envelope yourself in a Wholly Self-Sufficient Construct.

⁂

Take your Eyes back.
Retrieve your Ears.
Borrow your own mind from someone else.
Make up your own Mind your own mind.
Make your own mind.

⁂

The Mind is also the Eye, but it shouldn't be.
The Mind is confused with the Eye.
No matter the thoughts, make them of your own mind your own mind.
Realise that how you perceive is with your own Eye.
The Eye is the Mind.

⁂

Abstract Presumption.
Notions.
Conversations.

False Manners of Speech.
Duties, Tasks Undertaken.
Gestation, Posture, Dissociation from Body,
Association to Technological Money and Language.
Layout of Items and Furniture.
Posture.
Digestion.
Metaphor.
And yet so much of this is out of view for many, but this is why, despite your intent, your creative will gets blown to null.
What do you actually talk about for a whole day? Imagine all the words laid out in front of you.
Try it. What do you say? How do you do?
How does it all correspond? Or, better yet, how doesn't it?
How does it correspond to Truth, Reality, Power, or Nobility?
You are affected by all one hundred percent of this.
Not just the parts you find meaningful, or want to cherry-pick.
There is no filtration.
Like a cheese sandwich covered in bleach is arguably inedible, a Prayer or Incantation (Different forms of the Same Essence) after days of modern goings on and evading recognition of that is almost totally - useless.
Or is it?
Putting herbs into McDonald's doesn't make the full thing healthy. It is still unhealthy.
Or is it?
The Occult as Perceptual Incompleteness in Theorem in Practice is the Human Being.
What?

⁂

Increase the Volume of your Perception and Maintain Increase.
At some threshold you'll feel yourself coming back to Life.
Avoid pain or disfigurement despite all costs.

⁂

Nature is God's Form.
God is Nature's Substance.

⁂

The split between what a choice Is, and what a choice Isn't.
That is that, and that, and that, and that.
This is this, and this, and this.
Then the Magnolia Glass comes in.
What am I seeing it as?

⁂

Every pathetic excuse, lie, wilful ignorance or step into the unknown, every cowardly brush-off, every retreat of truth into what is untrue, in the face of this Problem, every way it is denied, subdued, evaded, or defended -
Will lead to a more devastating showdown.
In other words, the concept of Aeon or Judgement is different for everybody.

⁂

Are we Gods pretending to be animals,
Or animals pretending to be Gods?

⁂

It sure is a wonderful World.
It certainly isn't missing anything.
Are you missing something?
Rather the only reason anything at all seems missing is because someone invented Voids for them.
There's plenty of beauty to see if you - look at it.
Did you miss something?
Unobstructed Recognition of Beauty, and change of Beauty throughout time - Meaning.
But be shut off from newness no more.

Old Hermits Laugh Hard.

⁂

Every person should Invent, Discover, and Sense.
Their individual customs, myths, rituals, and symbols.
Every person should grow their own spirituality and religion, for this is equivalent in activity to discovering God's essence as it lays before our actual eyes.
To follow a preset mindless and soulless - that is not good.
That is the stuff of Unlife.
That is the Cancellation of any Living God if there ever was.
To barricade the doors with those very words.
Destroy "The Doors" and you are closer to opening them.
I call them "Th Dhors".
Call me Theodore.

⁂

Non-Duality.
The final front ears.
Two things are inescapable.
The Body and the Present Moment.
There is no difference.
Hear, hear!

⁂

Once Untethered, or More Untethered,
Then the Fresh Mind starts to open up to the rhythms and colours of their Space-Time to be recognised in their Meaning and Significance.
The Neural Mind-Body can become free and sensitive enough that it engages with the minutest rhythm and chemical change.
Divine Accuracy, Symmetry, all that Jazz.
All with a Life-Affirming Light permeating in the movements and presence.
This Neural Body-Mind is mine.

Painless Transmissions discover the contents of Life.

⁂

I invented my own means of time-keeping.
It wasn't hard.
I live in Reality.
I will not explain why this first point is important.
Sunrise is 90°.
Midday, or Top-Day, is 180°.
Sunset is 270°.
Mid-Night, or Bottom-Day is 0°.
On June 21st, 2024, 90° landed at 5:46am.
On April 23rd, 2024, 180° landed at 12:56pm.
On December 25th, 2024, 270° landed at 3:53pm.
On December 25th, 270° and 3:53pm are Truthfully Equivalent.
To know this is in practice is to know Reality in practice.
To unpractise this is to become virtual - mutilation of our species.
To practise this is to fulfil the Self Reliant Creativity Instinct.
It is to be like God's Image, Little Gods.
To fulfill our Destynation.

⁂

Be in the company of some others, your company be null.
Be by yourself, and you will find the company of millions.

⁂ ⁂ ⁂

OMEGA

Everything written here was bullshit.
None of it will ever mean anything.
Truly something to think about.
This is the last part of this.
Worthy to think about.
Round and round,
And round,
Again.
A-Z.
B.
1.
0.

⁂